F. J. CABOT SUED FOR $50,000 BY NIECE, A TYPIST

Miss Irene M. Bohannon Alleges Rich University City Man Has Slandered Her, Quotes Him as Having Said, "She Has Embezzled My Money."

TELLS OF A GIFT MADE TO A SISTER

Says $5000 Was Given "Partly Through Love," Accuses Him of Having Tried to Make Collection Agency of Prosecutor's Office.

Miss Irene M. Bohannon of 6139 Berlin avenue filed a $30,000 slander suit at Clayton Saturday against her uncle, Frank J. Cabot, wealthy University City resident and former high official in the E. G. Lewis enterprises.

Miss Bohannon is proprietor of the Bohannon Multi-Letter Co., in the Frisco Building, and is widely known among St. Louis business women. She lives with her mother, Mrs. Anna Bohannon and her sister Helen, a public stenographer.

In a petition of three typewritten pages, the plaintiff alleges that Cabot has made various improper remarks about her.

At the office of Circuit Attorney Jones in the Municipal Courts Building, Cabot said, July 3 of this year, "She has embezzled $5000 of my money," the plaintiff alleges. At various times and places, she alleges, Cabot made similar remarks.

Miss Bohannon, according to the city directory, is a stenographer in the Frisco Building. In one paragraph of her petition, she alleges Cabot tried to make a collection agency of the criminal department of the St. Louis Circuit Attorney's office in order to recover a gift of $5000 made to a sister of Miss Bohannon.

This gift, the petition says, was made "partly through love and affection and partly for services rendered by the plaintiff's mother."

Miss Bohannon alleges Cabot accused her of being in a conspiracy with her mother and sister to embezzle and keep the money.

"They are trying to embezzle my $5000," and "They are trying to keep my check" are among the things he is alleged to have said.

Other accusations of a serious nature were made against her by Cabot, Miss Bohannon alleges, after she had testified last October at an investigation which preceded the trial of E. G. Lewis, University City publisher.

Miss Bohannon asks for $25,000 actual and $25,000 punitive damages. Her suit was filed by Randolph Laughlin, a St. Louis attorney.

Miss Bohannon when seen at her office at first refused to talk of her suit. "I do not care to add anything to my petition," she said, "except to say that the check was given to my sister, my sister endorsed it over to me. I deposited it in my bank in the regular course of business and it went through all right.

"When my aunt, Mrs. Cabot, found out about the gift she became angry, and, I think, this caused all of the trouble. My uncle then tried to get the money back. I have been in business for myself for several years, and I have a reputation to sustain. I cannot sit idle and permit my uncle to make such charges."

Miss Bohannon would not go into details as to the reason for the gift and would not further discuss the statement in her petition that the present was partly in consideration of services rendered by her mother.

Uncle Is Going North.

When a Post-Dispatch reporter called at the Cabot home, 6995 Washington boulevard, to get a statement from the uncle, a servant said he was not at home.

The servant said Mr. and Mrs. Cabot were preparing to go to a Wisconsin resort for the rest of the summer.

MISSOURI FARMER SLAIN FROM AMBUSH

Man Who Had Enemies Found Dead Near His Home at Galena.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 6.—Enemies from ambush are believed to have assassinated Guy F. Reed, a farmer whose home was five miles south of Galena, Stone County. His body was discovered half a mile from his home early this morning. Reed had been dead several hours when found.

The Reed family summoned Sheriff John V. Parker of Galena, who, with several deputies, hurried to the scene. Reed is known to have had several enemies, one of whom is thought to have shot him.

GIRLS REFUSE TO PAINT NOSES; MAN WILL PLAY PART

Ralph Becker to Appear as Sairey Gamp in Piasa Dickens Production.

Because no summer girl at Piasa Chautauqua is willing to paint her nose red and make up as a dissipated frump, Ralph Becker of 5088 Raymond avenue will play the part of Sairey Gamp in a Dickens sketch to be given on Dickens day, next Wednesday, at the resort.

Sairey Gamp, as portrayed in the pages of Martin Chuzzlewit, is not a lovely person. She is fond of her toddy and it has left its mark on her nose and features. So, when Miss Loire Flint undertook to select young women to impersonate Dickens' characters in a sketch, she could not get one to make herself as unlovely as Sairey.

Mrs. G. V. R. Mechin had consented to sacrifice herself for Sairey's sake, but she was called away to Utica, N. Y., by sickness of a relative. Miss Flint pleaded, but not one of the summer girls was willing to paint her nose red.

Sairey was very necessary to the sketch, and Ralph Becker volunteered to submit his nose to the carmine and otherwise disfigure himself to visualize Sairey. He has a Sairey Gamp figure, all right, and will not have to add to that.

"In Search of a Hero Among Dickens' Characters" is the name of the sketch. Betsy Trotwood gives a tea party, and her 16 guests, all Dickens' feminine characters, try to decide which of Dickens' male characters is entitled to have his portrait hang in the Hall of Fame. Sairey Gamp is a man-hater, and suggests that they settle the thing by hanging a woman's portrait.

FIRST BABY NAMED FOR GOV. WILSON

Woodrow Wilson Sandler of New York Is Son of Tammany Leader.

SEAGIRT, N. J., July 6.—The first campaign boy to be named after Gov. Wilson, is Woodrow Wilson Sandler of New York City. The boy was born July 4, and is the son of Bernard H. Sandler, a New York lawyer and a prominent Tammany leader. In a letter to the Governor, Mr. Sandler says:

"I have two daughters and I wanted a son. The boy was born on the Fourth of July, which was a distinction, but when I thought of that demonstration for Gov. Wilson at the convention when he was nominated I came to the conclusion the boy would be proud of the name when he grew older."

ELOPING COUPLE OVERTAKEN BEFORE LICENSE IS USED

George F. Bryan and Miss Gertrude Daugherty Abandon Plans.

A marriage license obtained by George F. Bryan, 19-year-old son of Attorney P. Taylor Bryan of 4346 McPherson avenue, in a plan to elope with Miss Gertrude Daugherty of 2340 Adams street was not used, according to a statement given out by the Bryan family Saturday.

It was said that the would-be elopers were at their respective homes and that there would be no wedding.

Bryan's father learned of the issuance of the license Friday afternoon and at once started out to prevent the wedding.

According to the statement, Bryan found his son and Miss Daugherty at Forest Park Highlands and had a long conference, at the close of which Miss Daugherty agreed that the elopement plans be canceled.

Three men relatives of Bryan accompanied in the taxicab search for the elopers.

It is said that young Bryan satisfied his father that he was not married by showing the unused marriage license, and that he still has it in his possession.

Bryan's father is a member of the law firm of Stewart, Bryan & Williams.

Miss Daugherty lives with her parents and three sisters. The father is a contractor.

At Miss Daugherty's home Saturday it was said that she had no statement to make. Her mother said she and Bryan met at a dance about five months ago and that he frequently called at the Daugherty home, although it was understood that his parents were trying to keep him away. Mrs. Daugherty said her only objection to the match was that young Bryan had no employment.

WOMAN KISSES 10 JURORS; 2 ESCAPE

Screams of Joy Heard Two Blocks When She Is Acquitted of Husband's Murder.

JACKSON, Miss., July 6.—When Mrs. Lulu Wiltshire, aged 28, was acquitted today of a charge of murdering her husband, her screams of joy could be heard two blocks away. She kissed 10 members of the jury and the other two leaped from a window.

The woman was convicted at a previous trial. A negro now serving a life-sentence said she and her husband's brother, who loved her, paid him to murder the husband.

MISS VIOLET BOGY IS SURPRISE BRIDE OF A. G. MOSELEY JR.

Society Girl in Younger Set and Lawyer's Son Are Married in Washington City.

STUDIED FOR THE STAGE

Was Understudy to Bessie McCoy, Who Is to Wed Richard Harding Davis.

For the second time within two years Miss Violet Bogy—that was—the daughter of an old St. Louis family, has surprised her many friends in the younger society set.

She returned to St. Louis a bride Saturday. None of her acquaintances here had known that she contemplated matrimony.

The first surprise furnished by Miss Bogy was when she went to New York and joined the professional musical comedy ranks as understudy to Bessie McCoy, who was then starring in "The Echo," and whose marriage to Richard Harding Davis, the author, will take place Monday.

Retires From the Stage.

Family objections caused her to retire from the stage. Now she comes back as the bride of Arthur Guy Moseley Jr., of 1230 Amherst place, the 21-year-old son of Arthur Guy Moseley, a St. Louis attorney.

Miss Bogy went to New York with her father, Bernard P. Bogy, in 1910, and made her social debut there a short time later. Even then young Moseley was a suitor for her hand, but this was not known to her friends.

The wedding took place last Monday in Washington, D. C., where Miss Bogy was visiting Mrs. W. S. Sheets at the Woodley apartments.

Surprise to Mother.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father James A. Smith at St. Patrick's Cathedral in the presence of Capt. Merbill, U. S. A., of Fort Meyer, Va., and Mrs. A. C. Capdale of Washington.

Mrs. Moseley, the bridegroom's mother, told a Post-Dispatch reporter, Saturday, that the marriage was a great surprise to her. She said that her son was not strong and that she recently sent him to a physical training camp in New York State.

The first news of the marriage that came to Mrs. Moseley reached her, Friday, while she was visiting friends in Chicago. Her son called her on the long distance telephone and told her he was on the way to St. Louis with his bride.

Bride Is a Singer.

Miss Bogy is 20 years old. She is slender, and of medium height, and has brown hair and violet eyes. She was educated at the Visitation Convent, where she attained distinction because of her beautiful voice. Friends predicted for her a brilliant career as a singer.

On arriving in St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Moseley went to the residence of the bridegroom's parents, where they will make their home for a time.

OLYMPIC GOES AGROUND

NEW YORK, July 6.—The White Star liner Olympic, sister ship of the Titanic, with more than 650 passengers in her saloon and cabins, went aground off Ellis Islands today after veering from her course to avoid collision with the yacht Viking.

Tugs quickly surrounded her and pulled her clear after half an hour's work.

After proceeding down the bay the Olympic anchored off Tomkinsville, Staten Island and signaled "not under control."

Her commander sent word ashore that his steering gear had been disarranged in trying to avoid hitting the yacht. He hoped to get under way again soon.

ST. LOUIS SOCIETY GIRL WHO MARRIED ON VISIT IN THE EAST

MRS. ARTHUR GUY MOSELEY JR.

DOCTOR'S BILL TO MRS. BUSCH, IS RULING OF COURT

Claim Is Not Allowed Against Estate of Her Father's Friend.

Whether Mrs. Adolphus Busch agreed to pay the expenses incurred by the late Dr. Enno Sander in his last illness at St. Luke's Hospital is involved in a claim for $587 held by Dr. Robert E. Schlueter.

Judge Holtcamp, in the Probate Court, Saturday, refused to allow the claim against the Sander estate, ruling that the bill should be presented to Mrs. Busch. At the same time the court allowed a claim for $1100 against the estate on account of professional services given to Dr. Sander by Dr. Schlueter for a period of 18 months.

Dr. Schlueter, who was Dr. Sander's physician, testified in the Probate Court that when the patient was sent to St. Luke's in November, 1911, he said that Mrs. Busch, whose father, the late Eberhardt Anheuser, was an intimate friend of Dr. Sander, had expressed a desire that expenses should not be considered in caring for her father's old friend. Accordingly Dr. Schlueter, believing that Mrs. Busch intended to defray the expenses, arranged for special nurses and other advantages for Dr. Sander at the hospital.

Dr. Schlueter said that from his own funds he paid the Sander bills as they matured, believing Mrs. Busch would reimburse him. On Nov. 20 she sent the physician a check for $300.

Believing that it was Mrs. Busch's intention to continue to pay the hospital bills, Dr. Schlueter said that the special service was continued. After Sander's death Dr. Schlueter settled with the hospital. He then communicated with Mrs. Busch at Pasadena, Cal. He says he received a message from her husband to file the account as a claim against the Sander estate.

HONEYMOON IN 23 PARTS

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 6.—C. F. Weller of Omaha, and his bride, formerly Mrs. Jennie L. Whittefey of Hartford, Conn., split their honeymoon into 23 parts when they were married, Saturday, at Council Bluffs, Io.

They are here today with 22 descendants, eight children and 14 grandchildren, all participants in the ownership of the orb.

POLICEMAN WILL NOT BE SUSPENDED FOR KILLING NEGRO

Witnesses Declare Probationary Patrolman Was Threatened With Revolver.

Chief Young announced Saturday that Edward Benda, a probationary patrolman attached to the Dayton Street Station, will not be suspended for shooting George Mitchell, a negro, at 2 a. m. Friday, after negroes and white men had quarreled, at Jefferson avenue, and Pine street, about the Flynn-Johnson prize fight.

Mitchell, who was 26 years old and resided at 2615 Chestnut street, died at the city hospital Friday night. The police say they have abundant evidence that Benda was acting within his rights when he shot the negro.

Sergt. Silverman has reported that Ollie Hiller of 5889 Von Versen avenue, and John Crotty of 2815 Locust street, declare they saw two white men in a quarrel with negroes at Jefferson avenue and Pine street, and saw Mitchell level a revolver at Benda a few minutes before the shooting.

Crotty and Hiller, in an automobile, found Sergt. Phillips and two patrolmen at Lucas avenue and Twenty-third street, and told them Benda was being attacked by negroes. They took the three policemen in the automobile to the corner where the quarrel was in progress and then drove away.

They said they had seen Benda get off a car and interfere in the quarrel.

Sergt. Silverman was unable to locate Crotty and Hiller until Friday afternoon. The white men who were quarreling with the negroes have not been found.

GUINEA PIG EATS $36, TAFT IS APPEALED TO

WASHINGTON, July 6.—A 3-year-old Chicago boy got his mother's pocketbook and fed $36 in bills—his father's wages—to his pet guinea pig. The father sent the remnants of the pig's meal to President Taft today with an appeal to the Government to redeem the entire roll. The man is the sole support of a big family on $1.75 a day.

"You being the only one in Washington I know," he wrote to the President, "I am sending them to you."

As only small ends of the bills were recovered the Treasury of the United States will call upon the father to prove conclusively that the bills were eaten by the pig.

AMERICAN ATHLETES STAR IN OPENING OF OLYMPIC GAMES

Five Men Qualify for Final in Hundred-Meter Dash; Eight in 800-Meter Race.

PENNSYLVANIAN EQUALS WORLD'S RECORD OF 10 3-5s.

Wilson of Coe Defeated in Trial Heat by Englishman, Who in Next Event Runs Second to New-Yorker—Opening of Games an Inspiring Pogeant Attened by Royalty.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, July 6.—American athletes starred in the principal track events run off today at the opening of the fifth series of Olympic games here. In the preliminary heats of the 100 meter flat race seven representatives of the United States were winners while three others qualified for the semi-finals by securing second places. In the preliminaries, D. F. Lippincott, of the University of Pennsylvania, equaled the world's record for the distance 10 3-5 seconds, beating the Olympic record by 1-5 of a second.

In the semi-finals of the 100-meter sprint five Americans, H. P. Drew of Springfield, Mass.; A. T. Meyer of the Irish-American A. C., R. C. Craig of Detroit, Lippincott and A. V. Belote of Chicago, won their heats, thus qualifying for the final.

In the 800-meter race preliminary heats were won by five American athletes and three others also qualified for further competition by winning second places. No extraordinary fast times were made in this event, the best being that of P. E. Mann of England. It is noteworthy that the heat won by John Paul Jones of Cornell was the slowest of all, but he was not pressed in any way.

Melvin W. Sheppard, I.-A. A. C., was defeated by J. C. Soutter of England in this event, but was qualified for the final by getting second place, and the slow time in which the heat was run, 3m. 2-5s. indicates that he was reserving himself for his later effort.

Americans were disappointed in the defeat of C. F. Wilson of Coe College. The Western runner has this season been the most consistent 10-second man of the country for the 100-yard dash, and in the Chicago trial he tied the world's record for the 100 meters—10 4-5s. He was therefore considered one of two main reliances of the team in this event.

Today in the tenth heat D. H. Jacobs of England beat him a neck in world's record time—10 4-5s.

The other principal asset of the American sprint squad, H. P. Drew, the Springfield, Mass., negro high school boy, won his heat from A. Kern, Germany, in hollow fashion, time, 11 seconds.

World's Record Broken.

The American crowd present went into a storm of cheering after the sixteenth heat and forgot the defeat of Wilson, when Donald F. Lippincott of the University of Pennsylvania beat W. R. Applegarth, of England, setting a new world's record for the distance, 10 3-5 seconds.

For the 800-meter event the following were returned victors in their qualifying tests: David S. Caldwell, Massachusetts Agricultural College; Herbert N. Putnam, Cornell University; John Paul Jones, Cornell University; Clarence S. Edmundson, Seattle A. A.; Ira N. Davenport, University of Chicago; Harland W. Holden, Bates College; Melvin W. Sheppard, I. A. C., and James M. Meredith of Mercerburg Academy.

Lippincott Wins Again.

In the semi-final of the 100-meter race Howard P. Drew again showed his class, but he eliminated two of his teammates by winning. Jacobs of England, who spoiled Coe's chance in the preliminaries, went down to defeat. Lippincott showed that his world's record was not a flash by coming back with a 10 7-10s. time in the semi-final. Following are the semi-final heats:

First heat, semi-final, 100 meters—Howard P. Drew, Springfield (Mass.) High School, first; E. Kern, Germany, second; Ira Courtney, Seattle, and P. C. Gerhardt, San Francisco, were distanced. Time, 11s.

Second heat—G. H. Patching, South Africa, first; K. Lindberg, Sweden, second. There were no Americans in this heat. Time, 10 9-10s.

Third heat—Alvah T. Meyers, Irish-American A. C., first; D. H. Jacobs, England, second. Time, 10 7-10s.

Fourth heat—Ralph C. Craig, Detroit, first; R. Rau, German, second. Time, 10 7-10s.

Fifth heat—D. F. Lippincott, University of Pennsylvania, first; W. R. Applegarth, England, second. Time, 10 7-10s.

Sixth heat—F. V. Belote, Chicago, first; W. A. Stewart, Australia, second. Time, 11 1-5s.

In the Javelin-throwing E. Lemming, Sweden, was first, with 60 meters and 64 centimeters; J. J. Saaristo, Finland, second, 55 meters 66 centimeters; Miklos Kovach, Hungary, third, 55 meters 50 centimeters.

The inauguration of the Olympic games today provided a spectacle which probably has never been equaled in all the history of athletics from the days of ancient Greece. It was not only a beautiful and memorable scene but a solemn ceremony which moved the spectators deeply.

The day was perfect. There was a clear blue sky overhead. The great stadium was filled with 30,000 of all nationalities. The delicate colors of the women's costumes and the bright uniforms of the army officers in themselves made a remarkable picture.

When the members of the Swedish royal family entered their gaily decorated box at 11 o'clock all present stood with bared heads and gave a loud cheer, while a call blown by a corps of trumpeters sounded far and wide and announced the opening of the games.

A large group of singers then started the Swedish national hymn, which was joined in enthusiastically by many of the spectators.

The entry of the athletic teams into the arena gave the spectators an opportunity for a display of patriotism which each national delegation among them seized and gave voice to with all the power of their lungs.

Inaugural Ceremonial.

For the inaugural ceremonial the International Committee which includes representatives of all nations, under the leadership of Crown Prince Gustave Adolph of Sweden, assembled on the field in front of the massed competitors. A big male choir was formed at the far end of the stadium and sang a hymn while several bands played. The court pastor, the Rev. Oskar Clemens Aehfeldt, then preached a short sermon in Swedish.

The Rev. Robert De Courcy Laffan of the City of London, an old rowing man and a member of the British Olympic committee, then offered prayer, speaking of the gathering as in the interest of peace and friendship. The whole assemblage then sang the Luther hymn, "A Mighty Fortress is Our God."

Crown Prince Speaks.

The Crown Prince made a brief speech and afterward King Gustave V formally declared the Olympic games opened. His Majesty laid emphasis on the great honor which had been done to Sweden, which had been enabled to greet her friends and welcome athletes from other nations to peaceful competitions. His Majesty expressed the hope that the noble idea of the Olympic games of old would be followed in these modern games, to the great benefit of the physical health of the nations.

The Crown Prince, speaking again in Swedish, eulogized physical culture, saying that the richer a country was in earnest, devoted sportsmanship, the more it was to be congratulated. He asked the foreign sportsmen present to rest assured that the Swedes, who had had the great honor of organizing the series of Olympic games, were sincerely inspired by the desire that victory should go to the best man.

Marchers Are Cheered.

The Crown Prince, waving his silk hat, led three resounding cheers and the march of the athletes at once begun. As soon as it was finished, 200 white-clad Swedish gymnasts ran onto the field and performed a number of spectacular evolutions. After the men, Swedish women gymnasts gave an exhibition of exercises.

The culmination of the spectacle was the march of the athletes before the royal box.

After the small Belgian contingent, whose military uniforms and swordsmen furnished a picturesque touch, the Danish team provided the finest sight. Five hundred athletes and gymnasts, 200 of them women, followed the red standard with the white cross draped with crape, in memory of the late King Frederick. The women wore white sleeveless waists and short blue skirts, with blue stockings. The men wore jerseys.

The United States team followed the

NEW YORK IS FOR WILSON BY 150,000, SAYS TAMMANY

Leaders Pour in on Nominee and Assure Him of Their Heartiest Support.

CANDIDATE A POOR MAN

Lack of a Fortune Leads to Suggestion That He Retain Governorship for a Time.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEAGIRT, N. J., July 6.—With the arrival of Ollie James today the soothing applications of the Democratic medicine men to the sores opened at Baltimore will be finished. As Champ Clark suffered most, his wounds have been longest healing. Senator James will tell Dr. Wilson here today that he stands with a solidified and harmonious party behind him. There is, in fact, not a ripple of unrest anywhere on Democracy's peaceful surface.

Assurances of this kind were brought to Dr. Wilson by Senator O'Gorman, who had hurried from an all day conference in New York where old guardsmen met and agreed to roll up their sleeves and send the Princeton professor to Washington by as near a unanimous vote of the electoral college as may be obtained.

Developments within the last 24 hours are:

Tammany Hall sent an olive branch to the nominee by Senator O'Gorman. The Governor was informed that an earlier shift to the Wilson column might have dynamited the Wilson chances from the hall after Bryan's charge. Tammany was actually the reserve Wilson force, the Governor was assured, always ready to swing when needed by Wilson. Tammany further sent assurances that the Governor will sweep New York State by more than 150,000 over Taft, carrying into power a Democratic Governor and State Legislature. He was told that the great independent vote would go almost solidly for him. In fine, Tammany is out to make a new record with Wilson.

Peace From Underwood.

Leader Underwood sent John H. Bankhead Jr., son of the Senator who managed the Alabaman's candidacy to assure Gov. Wilson that the South rejoices in a distinguished son's elevation, and to convince him that the wounds and bitterness of the Wilson-Underwood primary campaigns in Southern states has been obliterated. Gov. Wilson characterized Bankhead's visit as a pleasant recollection of the day and asserted his admiration for the fidelity of the Underwood delegates.

William C. McAdoo, an early caller, who was one of the men who put Wilson in politics, stole away without being interviewed. He is credited with bearing a message that whatever sinews of war are needed may be had for the asking.

In fact, it is not a haphazard guess to state that Gov. Wilson's campaign chest will groan with the burden of subscriptions ready to be dumped in Wilson's lap. About the camp it was whispered that the nominee proposes to subject every proffer to all the chemical tests necessary to insure its disinterested origin.

Old line party chiefs sent word that they don't think he needs to annoy himself about a cross-country campaign. He was advised not to worry about resigning the governorship—it isn't necessary, they said. And as for the campaign officials, he is biding his time, although Josephus Daniels and Senator O'Gorman took occasion to boom Martin J. Wade of Iowa for preference in selection.

At present the Governor feels that the chairmanship should go to William F. McCombs as a reward. McCombs wants the place. But there may arise, the Governor was told, strong political reason for the honors going to men of the Wade-O'Gorman-Lynch type. The question most debated at present is the time of the Governor's resignation.

Gov. Wilson is a poor man. His salary is $13,000 yearly, $3000 of which is appropriated by the State to maintain the "Little White House" in summer. He receives about $3000 in yearly royalties on his books. The education of his three daughters has exacted many sacrifices from the Governor and Mrs. Wilson. Intimate friends are sure his bank balance is under $5000.

Before inauguration day next March, if the Governor is elected, dinners and receptions will easily eat up this balance, which represents his actual life savings as a professor. He received about $7000 for his Princeton residence, into which his total earnings had gone.

Resignation Question Unsettled

Many of the Governor's friends insist that he should resign, if for no other reason than to remove the impression that clinging to the governorship indicates a lack of confidence in the will of the people. State Chairman Hudspeth has such ideas. He believes that a candidate should show his faith in the people by submitting himself unobligated by office ties. Other advisers see no need in the Governor cutting himself off from his sole means of livelihood and leaving him so impoverished as to depend on the largess of friends.

GOV. WILSON WELCOMING MANAGER OF HIS NOMINATING CAMPAIGN; VISITORS AT SEAGIRT

CLARK TO SPEAK FOR GOV. WILSON

Underwood Will Also Take Stump to Help Elect Democratic Nominee.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Speaker Clark and Representative Underwood will take the stump for Gov. Wilson next fall. While Mr. Clark believes he should have been the Democratic nominee, his disappointment and anger are disappearing.

"It will give me great pleasure to work for Gov. Wilson," Mr. Underwood said. "I will surely take the stump for him and do everything in my power to assist him."

Mr. Underwood has won admiration as a "good loser." While he cherished deeply the hope that he would be nominated, he has shown no signs of regret.

HOBO TO BE IN PRESIDENCY RACE

How Is Favorite for Convention Which Is to Meet in New York.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The National Association of Hoboes of America, otherwise known as the Brotherhood Society of the Unemployed, and sometimes known as the Wandering Willies' League, will hold its national convention here tonight to nominate its standard bearers in the race for the presidency and vice-presidency of the United States, and to adopt a platform with its motive of securing less law and more soup.

For the last 48 hours delegates to the convention have been arriving on special (freight) trains, and along the Bowery have been discussing the candidates and the progressive policies to be supported in the furtherance of effortless lives, all olives and celery and roast duck and pudding and brimming beer. The favorite of the convention for presidential candidate seems to be James Eads How of St. Louis, but he has two strong rivals. One is acknowledged to be "Gulper" Kelly, who in the interest of the people, warmly supported by an enthusiastic branch of the party, caused several Bowery saloons to reduce the price of "red eye" to two drinks for 5 cents within certain early hours of the morning. The ultra progressive wing of the party is for Emma Goldman.

Chuck Conners, Dopey Dildock Dangerfield of Georgia, Red Rooney, Mush Meyers and others will be among the speakers, it is said, and addresses may be made, as in the past, by Hutchins Hapgood, the author, and Alexander Law of the Eight-Hour Work Association.

The hobo convention platform will put all life's troubles hard up to Uncle Sam. It will declare not only for Government control of working hours and making them mighty short, but they will also demand free railroad transportation to jobs when they have to take them, and that when they haven't any jobs the United States should be penalized for not providing them, and, anyway, when they are not working the Government should pay them 50 cents a day till they feel strong enough to get busy.

Conference on Third Party Plans in New Jersey.

NEWARK, N. J., July 6.—It was announced today that there would be a conference of the leaders of the Roosevelt League at the office of former Gov. J. Franklin Fort Monday night at which plans for the third party movement in this State would be discussed. The Roosevelt leaders believe they can name the electors that will be placed on the regular Republican ticket in New Jersey in November. It is also planned to place Roosevelt tickets in the field in every county in the State.

T. R. MEETING WITH TAFT MEN PRESENT, RESULTS IN ROW

Near-Riot Results When Republican Says He Will Vote for Wilson.

A meeting at Caesar's Hall, Arsenal street and Brannon avenue, Friday night, which was called by John B. Owen, heretofore known as a strong Taft man, for the stated purpose of "perpetuating the policies of Theodore Roosevelt," was attended by Taft and Roosevelt supporters in nearly equal numbers and broke up in a near-riot.

Owen stated, in calling the meeting to order, that its object was to have city as well as State officers selected at primary elections. He declared that contested delegates should not be allowed to vote on their own cases and sounded as the keynote of the Progressive Republican Club, which he proposed to organize, that 205 should not control 411.

David Durham made a stand-pat speech and was interrupted several times by Owen. Joseph Overbeck announced that he had been a Republican all his life but he was going to vote for Wilson. Durham said Overbeck was not a Republican if he was going to do that. Overbeck said no man could question his Republicanism and there was a demonstration. Others shouted that they would vote for Wilson.

When quiet was in a measure restored, William G. Buechner offered a resolution indorsing William C. Metz, a Taft man, for Central Committeeman and it was carried.

Owen appointed a committee to frame rules and by-laws for the Progressive Republican Club and another meeting will be held next week.

Taft men in local politics say Owen did not call the meeting in good faith but expected to be indorsed for Central Committeemen. Owen says he is in earnest and that he would not have a job as committeeman.

LEGAL ATTACHMENTS ON TWO AEROPLANES

Constables on Guard as Result of Suit Against Sparling, Aviation Schoolmaster.

Constables were on guard at Washington Park Saturday to prevent two aeroplanes from getting away. In addition to the mechanical attachments on the machines, legal attachments were placed on them at the instance of G. W. Holley in a suit against J. Nick Sparling, proprietor of a school of aviation.

Holley alleges that three weeks ago he paid $154 to Sparling and in return was to get that amount of stock in the company and a job as mechanician. After working three weeks, he says, he is unable to collect the $53.40 in wages which he alleges is due him. Sparling is now conducting an aviation meet at Kirksville, Mo.

MRS. MOORE USES STEAM ROLLER ON SUFFRAGE MOTION

Women's Clubs Federation Not Allowed to Vote on Indorsement of Propaganda.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—An exciting incident featured the passing into history of the eleventh biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. It grew out of a final effort on the part of the ardent supporters of equal suffrage to obtain the federation's indorsement of their propoganda.

As the president, Mrs. Philip N. Moore of St. Louis, stepped to the front of the platform to read some letters, Miss Alice Henry, a delegate from Illinois, made a motion that inasmuch as the convention had given indorsement to the work, in the interest of world peace, of Baroness Bertha von Suttner, "it is now the sense of this convention that the work of Susan B. Anthony be indorsed." The motion was promptly seconded.

Steam Roller in Use.

Mrs. Moore, who had displayed signal ability as a presiding officer, calmly and with a smile put the steam roller in motion and when she was through the motion had been flattened out.

Then she calmly proceeded to read the letters she held, one from Dr. Harvey W. Wiley and the other from J. Horace McFarland, president of the American Civic Federation.

After the reading of the letters, in which she presented Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the Children's Bureau, to the convention, Mrs. Frederick Nathan of New York demanded a vote upon Miss Henry's motion. From various parts of the hall arose cries of "question, question."

Motion Is Not Put.

Mrs. Moore again faced the audience with a smile and serenely said:

"This is the president's evening. The motion will be given to the press."

There was a gasp of surprise from Miss Henry and the other supporters of the motion. Then the business of the evening was quietly concluded. Decisively the matter of suffrage had been given its quietus so far as its indorsement by the federation was concerned.

FEW IN CONGRESS ELECT TO FOLLOW STANDARD OF T. R.

Progressive Republicans Doubt the Advisability of Launching Third Party.

DIXON FOR THE COLONEL

La Follette, Gronna and Cummins Among Those to Remain in Republican Ranks.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Most of the progressive Republicans in Congress will decline to join the Republican third party movement. Joseph M. Dixon, preconvention campaign manager for Col. Roosevelt, is the only Senator who seems enthusiastic over the Roosevelt plan. Rep. Curry of New Mexico, who was a rough rider in the Spanish-American war, is the only member of the House who has shown a desire to line up with the Colonel.

La Follette, Cronna and other leading progressive Senators will make formal statements within a week disavowing any purpose to take part in the organization of a new party. These Senators may not declare for Taft, but they will make it plain that they do not think it wise to start a third party. Senator Cummins made such a statement today.

Senator Dixon, who was with Col. Roosevelt in New York, precipitated third-party discussions among insurgent Republicans today by sending to them a telegram asking if they had any suggestion about the call that is due for Monday. Most of those who received the Dixon message will suggest that the third party movement be abandoned.

Senator Poindexter of Washington said to the Post-Dispatch correspondent today:

"In our State the Republicans indorsed in the regular way Col. Roosevelt. They elected a Roosevelt delegation to Chicago, but a reactionary national committee refused to seat the delegates. The Republicans of Washington will name and support Roosevelt electors, regarding Mr. Roosevelt as the real choice of the party for the presidency. In my opinion Roosevelt will carry all of the Republican states. It is doubtful if Taft will carry more than three and they will be small ones."

In Kansas and South Dakota Roosevelt men in charge of the State conventions nominated Roosevelt electors. Senator Bristow and Crawford will be influenced by the action of their State conventions. Neither Bristow nor Crawford is ready to state his position.

Senator Bourne was defeated for renomination at the recent primaries in Oregon and will retire when his term is out. Senator Dixon is out of line with the party organization in Montana and in a desperate fight for his political life. Senator Clapp has told his friends that he would support the Colonel.

American Runner, in Olympic Games, Makes New Record

Danes. Ralph Rose of the Olympian A. C.; M. J. McGrath, New York City, and Simon P. Gillis of the New York A. C., in the front rank, looked giants compared with most of the men on the field. The members of the United States Olympic Committee headed by Col. Robert M. Thompson and James E. Sullivan, wore silk hats. The competitors followed in three divisions.

First came the American athletes in blue jackets, white trousers and shoes, holding their straw hats in front of their breasts as they passed the King. Then marched the army riflemen in khaki, with the other shooters in civilian clothes, and the last rank in blue jerseys, shouldering shotguns.

When the massed bands played the "Star Spangled Banner" thousands of Swedes joined the American spectators in shouting, "Rah! Rah! Rah! U. S. A." and the whole body of Swedish athletes gave a round of handclapping, an honor they bestowed on none of the other visitors.

The German and English squads of athletes were only half as numerous as the American team. They wore dark uniforms. England, however, was reinforced by colonial delegations coming from Canada, Australia and South Africa. The Canadians wore white running clothes with red maple leaves on their breasts.

After the Australians came the Hungarians, who marched under their own flag. The Finlanders likewise followed the Russians with their own banner and received a great cheer, particularly the Finnish women competitors from their Swedish neighbors.

Sweden had the biggest representation. Its team numbered between 500 and 600, the gymnasts, who total 300, in white trousers and jerseys, followed by 100 athletes in white track clothes and 200 fair-haired women, whose compatriots on the bleachers acclaimed them with a great roar.

France sent about 100 men, while Italy, Greece and Switzerland each sent a squad.

OLYMPIC SUMMARIES:

800-Meters Dash Heat.

First heat, 800 meters—David S. Caldwell, Massachusetts Agricultural College, beat the famous Italian, E. Lunghi, by five yards. J. Caulle of France, made the pace for 550 meters, but he later dropped back. Walter McClure, Olympic A. A., San Francisco, was outdistanced.

Second heat, 800 meters, flat—F. E. Mann, England, first; Herbert N. Putnam, Cornell University, second. Time, 1m. 58s.

Third heat, 800 meters, flat—John Paul Jones, Cornell University, first; A. Z. Cortesao, Portugal, made the pace for three-quarters the distance. Jones then forged ahead, finishing easily six yards in front. Time, 2m. 1 4-5s.

Fourth heat, 800 meters flat—Clarence S. Edmundson, Seattle A. A., first; J. L. Tait, Ontario, Canada, second; C. A. C. Poulenard, France, third. The five competitors were closely bunched. R. Burton of England was fourth. Time 1h. 56m. 5-10s.

Fifth heat—Ira N. Davenport, University of Chicago, first; F. H. Hulford, England, second. The three English competitors did good team work. R. Hales made the running for 400 meters and then withdrew. Time, 1m. 59s.

Sixth heat, 800 meters flat—Harlan W. Holden, Bates College, first; E. Bjorn, Sweden, second. The Swede made a good race in the last half, but Holden finished easily in front of the six others, including a Turk, who made one burst to the front with the star and crescent on his jersey, but was outdistanced. Time, 1m. 58 1-10s.

The firsts and seconds in the trial heats of the 800 meters flat compete in the finals. Thus, America is represented by eight men and England by four, while Canada has two.

Seventh heat, 800 meters, flat—J. C. Soutter, England, first; Melvin W. Sheppard, Irish-American, second.

The result was a great surprise. The Englishman sprinted 200 yards from the finish and crossed the tape six yards ahead of Sheppard, who appeared to be winded in the first 200.

Eighth heat, 800 meters, flat—G. M. Brock, Ontario, first; James E. Meredith, Mercerburg Academy, second; J. A. Victor, South Africa, third.

It was a beautiful, close race between four Anglo-Saxon competitors. The Canadian burst to the front a few feet before the tape. Time, 1m. 57s.

Ninth heat, 800 meters flat—E. J. Henley, England, first; Hans Braun, Germany, second; Thomas J. Halpin, Boston A. C., and Swede tied for third. Time 1m. 57 3-5s.

GIRL, 6, BITTEN BY DOG, ASKS $15,000

Dorothy Niggeman Files Suit Against Alleged Owners of Animal.

Dorothy Niggeman, 6 years old, of 3726 Maffitt avenue, filed suit in the Circuit Court Saturday through Judge A. A. O'Hallaron, as her attorney, and her father, Gustavius Niggeman Jr., as best friend, against John Gorman and his sister-in-law, Miss Lizzie Moran, both of 2714 North Spring avenue, for $15,000 damages for having been bitten on the lip by a white and black dog said to belong to one of the defendants.

The child is alleged to have been bitten April 2, 1912, on St. Louis avenue, near Grand avenue. One count of the suit is for damages for the bite and another is for damages because the owners did not notify the child's parents that the dog was mad. This was not learned until April 8, when the parents were informed by the city bacteriologist.

HADLEY HOLDS APPOINTEES IN LINE FOR TAFT

Thomas K. Niedringhaus Announces Governor Will Support President.

SITUATION IS UNCERTAIN

National Committeeman Refuses to Make Prediction of Taft Success.

Thomas K. Niedringhaus, Missouri member of the Republican National Committee and one of the original Roosevelt leaders in Missouri, departed for Washington Saturday to attend a meeting of the subcommittee of the Republican National Committee, at which plans for President Taft's campaign will be formally outlined.

According to Niedringhaus, the former Missouri supporters of Col. Roosevelt, including Gov. Hadley, have decided to accept the Taft candidacy, although they say that the situation is somewhat embarrassing in view of the manner of the President's nomination at the Chicago convention. The Governor has passed the word to his State officeholders that the success of the party is entirely dependent on the regular Republican national ticket.

"Just now," said Niedringhaus, "the situation is a bit hazy.

"Matters are up in the air from an organization standpoint. I talked to Gov. Hadley over the phone yesterday and asked him what message I should take from him to Washington.

"'You know Governor,' I said, 'that everybody will be asking what you are going to do, whether your attitude towards President, even though you are against the third party movement, will be impassive.'

Says Hadley Is for Taft.

"He answered that his position had been clearly stated after the Chicago convention and that he had not changed. Hadley will be found advocating President Taft's re-election. If I did not intend to remain loyal I would not attend this meeting of the National Committee and of course that body has power to kick me out any time it wants to."

"Do you think President Taft will win?" Niedringhaus was asked.

"Oh, I am not making any predictions," he said. "I find there are Democrats who will not vote for Wilson and Republicans who will not vote for Taft. Friends of Champ Clark in Missouri are not entirely reconciled to Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic standard bearer.

"That Baltimore platform will make the Republican rank and file hesitate before throwing any strength to the Democratic ticket. It is an out-and-out free trade propaganda, a tariff for revenue only and absolutely destroys the protective principle which is the fundamental tenet of the Republican party."

Expects Decreased Majority.

Niedringhaus admitted that the Republicans would have uphill work trying to carry Missouri and that the big Republican majority in St. Louis would be cut down considerably at the November election. This view is shared also by Jeptha D. Howe, former chairman of the Republican City Committee, who helped to launch Roosevelt's St. Louis boom.

"Two is company and three is a crowd," said Howe. "That is the reason I am against the third party scheme. It is too soon to make predictions on the outcome of the presidential contest. Wilson will not have a walkover."

The Taft men are using heroic measures to stop a possible local trend to Col. Roosevelt's proposed new party and thus far they have succeeded in silencing any Republican leader who shows a tendency to insurge on behalf of Col. Roosevelt.

WOMAN AUTHOR MAKES SUCCESS THROUGH ACCIDENT

Mrs. Dell H. Munger, Formerly of Kansas, Now of California, Urged to Write Book.

LETTER TO SON PRAISED

Produces "The Wind Before the Dawn" and Shelves It Four Years.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PALO ALTO, Kan., July 6.—Mrs. Dell H. Munger did not see a grasshopper storm from the back of a horse, nor did she go through a cyclone with a friend. This is authoritative. It is a statement made by the author of "The Wind Before the Dawn," herself, and she ought to know.

In a letter to a friend in New York, Mrs. Munger tells jut how she came to write "The Wind Before the Dawn," and incidentally she reveals how literary success came to one author who never strove for it, and who was herself more surprised than anybody when her timid knock at the door of literary fortune evoked a hearty response.

To state the case exactly, Mrs. Munger's first book was accepted by a firm of publishers "with enthusiasm," as they themselves declared in their letter to her, following the receipt of the manuscript.

Letter Was Praised.

Mrs. Munger is a Kansas bred woman, but she now lives in California. Her first temptation to break into literature came, according to her admission in the leter to her New York friend, when the principal of the Palo Alto Academy praised an informal sort of a letter she had written to her son, who was one of his pupils. Impressed by the ideas the letter contained, he tried to persuade her to send the letter just as it stood to a woman's magazine.

Subsequently the professor urged Mrs. Munger to put the letter in story form. She laughed at the idea of her becoming an author, but that idea did really find lodgment in her brain and it germinated until "The Wind Before the Dawn" emerged into being.

Now Mrs. Munger did not try to do any fancy writing. She admits that she could not have done so had she tried. But in the simple, idiomatic language of the country she told a story of Western Kansas life that was so true to the original, so picturesque, so artistic in its very lack of all art, that the result amazed the publishers to whom she sent it.

Tells of Grasshopper Storm.

And in her story Mrs. Munger told about the grasshopper storm that never whirtled about her head at all, and the cyclone which she never experienced with a friend, although such things would have been by no means incongruous to life in her part of Kansas.

She wrote the story feverishly—completed it within three days less than two months—135,000 words of it, and every word born from the soil of Kansas or faithfully adapted thereto.

Then the feeling that all her endeavor had been futile came over Mrs. Munger and she shelved the child of her brain for two, three, four years. At last urged by a college student who was "majoring" in English, and who, she says, was "a good critic," she sent the manuscript to the publishers and it was promptly accepted.

BRYAN HANGED IN EFFIGY

Residents Cut Down Figure Suspended by One Man.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Conflicting stories are being told of the hanging in effigy of William J. Bryan at Colonial Beach, a summer resort near here, Wednesday night.

The truth seems to be that the hanging was done by one man, disappointed over the outcome of the Baltimore convention. The residents of Colonial Beach, however, resented the act and by way of showing it cut down the effigy and threw it into the Potomac River.

Injured Woman Declares She Was Struck With a Clock; Modiste Denies It.

FIT OF DRESS IN DISPUTE

Doctor Across Hall in West End Building Hears Altercation and Ends Hostilities.

Just how Mrs. W. B. Hutchins, a guest at the Beers Hotel, came into violent collision with an alarm clock in the dressmaking apartments of Miss Edith Boland in the Marina Building at Grand and Lindell avenues is a mystery which the police are still trying to solve.

That there was an encounter between Mrs. Hutchins and Miss Boland Friday afternoon is admitted, but Miss Boland denies that she threw the alarm clock.

The known fact is that Dr. Heine Marks, whose office is across the hall from Miss Boland's, heard angry words and screams.

Glaring at Each Other.

He ran into Miss Boland's office and found the women glaring at each other. Miss Boland had an alarm clock tightly gripped in her right hand. Mrs. Hutchins held her handbag in one hand and a telephone book in the other.

"She struck me with the purse," gasped Miss Boland.

"She hit me with the alarm clock," said Mrs. Hutchins.

There was a cut above Mrs. Hutchin's right eye.

With difficulty Dr. Marks quieted the women and induced Mrs. Hutchins to permit him to dress her wound.

Miss Boland called a policeman and said she would prosecute Mrs. Hutchins, but later she left her office and went to a friend's home.

Mrs. Hutchins Not Held.

Mrs. Hutchins was taken to the Laclede Avenue Station but was not held. Her brother, Luther Schuck of 5778 Delivalle avenue, took her away in an automobile.

According to Schuck's statement his sister recently came to St. Louis from Los Angeles after separating from her husband. Letters from Los Angeles addressing Mrs. Hutchins as "My Dear Wife" and signed "Alfonso," were found scattered about Miss Boland's office after the encounter.

Miss Boland says these letters fell from Mrs. Hutchins' handbag when Mrs. Hutchins used the bag as a weapon in the fight.

"I didn't strike her with the clock at all. She just ran against it," said Miss Boland.

Gives Up Hotel Rooms.

Mrs. Hutchins could not be found Friday. She gave up her rooms at the Beers Hotel a short time after the encounter. Her brother says she is at the home of friends, but has no statement to make.

The reason for the quarrel between Mrs. Hutchins and Miss Boland is said by Shuck to have been that Mrs. Hutchins went to Miss Boland's office to complain that a dress made for her by Miss Boland did not fit and to demand that it be altered. This, he alleges, made Miss Boland angry and she threw the alarm clock.

Miss Boland says a misunderstanding arose as to whether the alterations asked for by Mrs. Hutchins should be made without charge and that Mrs. Hutchins opened hostilities by throwing the telephone book.

The motive of Fulton's Renal Compound (a mild infusion) is to stop the degeneration in renal tissues and gradually relax the obstructed kidney. PRAYING FOR CHAMP

By W. H. JAMES.

After the nomination of Woodrow Wilson by the Democratic national convention at Baltimore Kermit Roosevelt, son of Theodore, was quoted as saying: "Pop has been praying for Clark."

Oh tell us, young Kermit
And where is the Hermit,
The recluse of Oyster Bay?
Has he crawled in his shell?
Is he down in the well,
And what has he got to say?
"No word from the Hermit,"
Replies the young Kermit;
"Methinks, by the prophet's lamp,
He's out in the shed
Or under the bed."
"What's he doing?"
"Why, praying for Champ."
Praying for Clark
In daylight and dark,
And strenuous prayers were they;
But now tell us Kermit
And what of the Hermit,
Since Wilson has carried the day?
"Well, I'll tell you," says Kermit,
"I hear that the Hermit
Is somewhere behind the stairs,
But the things that he says,
By the whiskers of Hez,
You couldn't quite call them prayers."

SENATE OPENS ITS FINAL DEBATE OF THE LROIMER CASE

Vote on "Parliamentary Day of July 6," Likely to Run Into Next Week.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Senator Dillingham, chairman of the committee that made the second investigation of the Lorimer case, made the first speech today. In the final lap of a contest which is regarded as one of the most sensational in the history of the Senate, Lorimer was not present when the speech-making began but he came in later and will make the closing argument in his own behalf.

Dillingham presented the findings which upheld Lorimer. Preceding his analysis of the case he discussed political conditions in Illinois in 1900 when Lorimer was elected.

In dealing with the re-election of Shurtleff as Speaker of the Illinois House by a coalition with Democrats in 1909, Dillingham said that the senatorship had not been involved in this contest. He described the reconciliation of differences between Lorimer and Gov. Deneen to the fact that the Governor's political situation was desperate, by reason of the candidacy of former Vice-President Stevenson. Senator Dillingham showed that instead of being a candidate for the Senate when the Legislature met, Lorimer was pressing Deneen to enter the race.

When a question arose as to the attitude of Speaker Shurtleff on the senatorial question, Senator Lorimer interrupted to say that the Speaker had voted for Representative Foss for Senator.

In parliamentary fiction, the vote is to be taken on "the legislative day of July 6."

This is the close of the second Senate investigation and fight on Lorimer since Charles A. White, a representative in the Illinois Legislature, sold for publication an exposure of alleged legislative corruption affecting Lorimer's election to the Senate.

Confessions, indictments, charges and counter charges notch the pathway of the Lorimer case since that exposure. The present issue is Lorimer's right to a seat in the Senate, which the investigating committee, in its recent report to the Senate, sustained, five to three. About 10 senators have indicated that they wish to make speeches before the vote.

LUHNOW, MAGAZINE EDITOR, DISAPPEARS

NEW YORK, July 6.—Christian A. Luhnow, publisher of a successful financial magazine, and former business associate of Lyman J. Gage, has mysteriously vanished without leaving a hint to indicate to his family and friends what has become of him.

Luhnow was last seen on June 11. He made a hurried visit to his office, 15 Wall street, where "Trust Companies," a monthly publication, was issued under his direction. He had a suit case with him and after a few minutes' conversation with his employes left the building without telling his destination.

Six days prior to that he instructed the head clerk at his home in Montclair, N. J., to discharge all the servants and close the house.

The disappearance of Mr. Luhnow occurred about ten days after his wife and their 7-year-old son, Christian A. Luhnow Jr., suddenly left Montclair to visit Mrs. Luhnow's brother and sister in Boulder, Colo.

After arrival in Colorado Mrs. Luhnow received no word from her husband and became greatly worried. Her efforts to get into communication with him failed and she appealed to her lawyers to locate him.

MEXICAN REBELS DESERTERS WHEN FOOD GIVES OUT

Orozco's Army Is Now Estimated at Not to Exceed 3500 Men.

EL PASO, Tex., July 6.—Only 3500 are estimated as comprising the remnant of the Mexican rebel army. Desertions because of lack of food and money and Federal triumphs have greatly reduced the insurrecto columns within the last week.

Gen. Pascual Orozco today was expected at Juarez, the new rebel capital, to launch further plans for a continuation of the revolution. Though the plan of guerilla warfare originally called for a division of the rebel forces into detachments of 150 men, Gen. Orozco now has ordered that each column shall contain not less than 500 able men to nominate the region detailed to it.

The rebel invasion of the State of Sonora has been begun. Nearly 1000 men under Gen. Emilio Campa are marching from Casas Grandes on the Mexican Northwestern Railroad toward Bavispe, one of the mountain passes leading into Sonora. En route from Agua Prieta, opposite Douglas, Ariz., to check them is the Federal column of 9000 men under Gen. Sanjinees, who will make his headquarters at Colonia Morelos, near the Sonora State line, 50 miles south of the international border.

Gen. Huerta has established headquarters at Horcasitas, 25 miles south of the City of Chihuahua. Railroad and telegraph communication with the City of Chihuahua probably will be restored in five days.

BRONZE STATUE OF CHAMPLAIN, STATE GIFT, IS UNVEILED

Heroic Figure Is Erected on Park Terrace Overlooking Lake He Discovered.

CANOES ARE ORNAMENTS

Prominent New Yorkers and Vermont Governor Are Guests at Ceremony.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., July 6.—The monument given by the State of New York to the City of Plattsburg to commemorate the achievement of Samuel de Champlain, discoverer of beautiful Lake Champlain, was unveiled today.

The monument, capped with a bronze figure of the navigator, stands on a park terrace overlooking the waters that he came upon 302 years ago.

At the front of the base, which is surmounted by a granite seat, crouches the granite figure of an Indian holding bow and shield. Either side of the figure is ornamented by a canoe prow decked with trophies of the time of Champlain. At the rear of the base is a bronze tablet bearing the names of the Tercentenary Commissioners under whose auspices the monument was constructed.

Made His Journey in a Canoe.

The canoe prows have been made a part of the memorial because the canoe was one of the highest achievements of the Indians and it was in eastern North America that the canoe was first heard of. It was in a canoe that Champlain made his journey to the body of water that bears his name.

The upper part of the pedestal is ornamented with carved garlands of Indian corn. There, on the front is this inscription:

SAMUEL CHAMPLAIN
1567 1635
NAVIGATOR DISCOVERER COLONIZER

The following inscription is on the back:
ERECTED BY THE STATE OF NEW YORK IN COMMEMORATION OF THE DISCOVERY OF LAKE CHAMPLAIN 1609. 1909.

Prominent Men at Unveiling.

The statue, which is nearly 12 feet high, shows Champlain in his soldier costume.

It was arranged for the dedication ceremonies to be held in the presence of Gov. Dix and his staff, Lieutenant-Governor Conway, Gov. Mead of Vermont, Justice Hughes of the United States Supreme Court and other prominent men of the United States and Canada.

SENATE PASSES BILL FOR 2 BATTLESHIPS

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The Naval Appropriation bill carrying $133,609,673 and the two battleship provisions has been passed by the Senate and now goes to the conference with the house to thresh out the naval increase program and other Senate amendments.

Senator Johnson of Alabama, proposed a substitute provision for one battleship and gave notice that he would propose, when the Panama canal administration is considered, to deny the use of the canal to all nations which do not agree to build only one battleship a year. He said the United States should end the wasteful battleship competition with Europe by entering into treaties with them to cease building such vessels.

The Johnson one battleship provision was rejected 12 to 43

SHE SUFFERED TEN MONTHS

Mrs. Blankenship Tells of Her Restoration to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I feel it my duty to express my thanks for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was a sufferer from female troubles and had been confined in bed over one-third of my time for ten months. I could not do my housework and had fainting spells so that my husband could not leave me alone for five minutes at a time.

"Now I have been restored to health and it has come from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Whenever I see a suffering woman I want to tell her what this medicine has done for me and I will always speak a good word for it."—Mrs. Robert Blankenship, Elliston, Va., Montgomery Co.

Was Helpless—Now Well.

Trenton, Mo.—"About two years ago I had female trouble so bad that I was literally helpless and had to be tended like a baby. I could not move my body or lift my foot for such severe pains that I had to scream. I was very nervous and had other ailments.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me to such an extent that I think there is no medicine like it for female troubles. I am up and able to do my work again and I give you full permission to publish my letter for the sake of other suffering women."—Mrs. W. T. Purnell, 320 10th St., Trenton, Mo.

ANOTHER HOT DAY ADDS TO PERIL OF TENEMENT BABIES

Mothers and Their Little Ones Crowd Pure Milk Stations During Clinic Hours.

SUMMER FIGHT FOR LIFE

Now Has Come the Time to Help "the Fund That Helps the Babies of the Poor."

"SAVE THE BABIES" RECORD LAST YEAR

18 Pure Milk stations maintained by Pure Milk Commission during 1911.
707,660 bottles of pure milk distributed.
380 tenement babies supplied with pure milk every day.
310 baby lives saved that otherwise would surely have been lost.
The baby death rate in one pure milk district alone decreased from 20 to 4 per cent.
The baby death rate in all the 18 pure milk districts decreased 8.7 per cent.

Another scorching hot day has contributed its debilitating and milk-poisoning powers to increase the odds against the tenement babies in their summer fight for life.

It's an ominous menace to the little ones of the poor, this sudden change from the refreshing cool weather of the June just ended to the languorous heat of July's early days. Babies can't withstand such marked fluctuations of the temperature like grown folks. They haven't the necessary physical hardihood. They're not seasoned. They're frail and easily stricken down by the heat.

Especially is this true when they're not sustained and strengthened with healthful food—and, unhappily, the same hot weather that makes such a drain on baby vitality exercises at the same time a sinister influence in the milk supply, the only food possible for babies. It poisons the milk, making it mean death instead of life to the tenement tots.

That's why you'll now find every Pure Milk Station in St. Louis crowded with tenement mothers and their babies during the morning clinic hours. The mothers know that there alone can they procure the pure milk necessary to the very existence of their little ones. There, too, they have the careful attention of good doctors and nurses, making sure that each baby receives precisely that "modification" of milk best suited to its individual need.

During these hot days, therefore, the Pure Milk Stations in the city's congested tenement districts are havens of refuge for tenement mothers and babies. The St. Louis Pure Milk Commission strives to meet competently every demand for help made by every mother in behalf of her baby. But it costs money to maintain these Pure Milk Stations and to support the Commission's splendidly helpful service.

That's the one particular duty on the firing line for the performance of which the Post-Dispatch has enlisted its best efforts. The Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund was established and maintained by generous Post-Dispatch readers for this very purpose of financially aiding the Pure Milk Commission in its work of saving the tenement babies. Throughout eight years past it has extended this assistance so imperatively needed—and it hopes now to break all its own records of helpful service.

There's no question as to the imminent peril of the babies of the tenements. It is the peril of death. They'll die by hundreds if the Pure Milk Commission lacks the money necessary to its work. These baby hundreds need not die, however. They can be snatched from the very jaws of death, nearly every one of them, if the organized movement for their rescuing receives an adequate financial support. Men, women and children can help in this good work. The Pure Milk Fund slogan sounds the appealing cry for help.

Save the Babies!

At Chautauqua, the popular St. Louis summer resort, on the night of Saturday, Aug. 3, an entertainment will be given for the benefit of the Pure Milk Fund, under the auspices of the Chautauqua Board of Directors. A little company of juvenile players will present a picturesque version of "Rip Van Winkle" on that occasion. A number of St. Louis young ladies will solicit contributions to the fund. The night named will be known as "Post-Dispatch Pure Milk Fund Night," and it is expected that a handsome sum will be realized for the saving of the tenement babies.

Then, too, on the evening of July 21, at the Jewish Educational Alliance Building, Ninth and Carr, a company of youthful players will present a fairy play for the benefit of the Pure Milk Fund. These young folks have been splendid allies of the fund during past summers, and now they're more enthusiastic in its behalf than ever. They're determined to score a record-breaking success with their entertainment this year, and it's safe to predict that they'll do so. Youth will be served, you know—and youth working for the saving of babyhood surely deserves to conquer.

U.S. District Judge Whom Socialists Would Impeach

Committee Disagrees on Character of Evidence Offered Against Judge.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 6.—Judge Hanford's personal habits still were under investigation when the House Judiciary Subcommittee met today. Several witnesses subpenaed by the committee to testify against the Judge are yet to be heard. Chairman Graham intimated yesterday that the majority of the committee would scrutinize the evidence offered and exclude what was not material.

Representative Higgins of Connecticut has openly quarreled with his colleagues because of their policy of admitting all the evidence against Judge Hanford that can be obtained and permitting Hanford's counsel to introduce only rebuttal.

MAN FALLS FROM PORCH

John E. Wagner Suffers Bruises and Internal Injuries.

John E. Wagner, 57 years old of 1543 South Seventh street, fell from a second-story porch of his home at 1 a. m. Saturday, when the banister on which he was leaning gave way.

He fell to the brick-paved yard, a distance of 20 feet.

He was taken to the city hospital, where it was found he was internally injured, and had several contusions on his face. His condition is serious.

GIRL SAVES HER LITTLE SISTER AS HOME IS BURNED

Miss Edna Simon Tries to Return for Diamond Ring, but Is Restrained.

POLICEMAN IS INJURED

Enters House to Get Woman's Clothing, Then Jumps From Window.

Miss Edna Simon, 18 years old, of 2446 Olcott avenue, at the risk of her own life, saved her little sister, Gertrude, 6 years old, when her home burned Saturday morning, but lost a diamond ring which she had left on the chiffonier.

The fire was discovered about 2 a. m. and Fred Simon, her brother, dressed only in his night clothes, ran four blocks to turn in an alarm. Before leaving the house he called Edna and left the rescuing of the family in her hands.

Miss Edna called her mother and then groped her way through the smoke into another room; with difficulty she aroused her little sister.

Half leading, half carrying the child, Miss Simon finally succeeded in getting out of the house.

Mrs. Simon and her daughters stood in front of the house in their night clothes waiting for the department to come when Mrs. Simon remembered a number of valuable papers she had in her room and rushed into the burning house to rescue them. While looking for the papers and trying to save a few clothes, the fire closed in on her and she ran from the house with her hair singed and sparks clinging to her night dress.

Policeman Frank Lockman of the Mounted District, at the request of Mrs. Simon, went into the house and tried to save some clothing. He gathered up all the wearing apparel he could find and tossed it out of the front window. He found his exit cut off, as the stairs were ablaze, and leaped out of the window. As he fell he sprained his left leg.

After Lockman had jumped from the window Miss Simon remembered she had left her diamond ring on a chiffonier and she made a rush for the house to rescue it. The flames were then bursting out of the door and the girl was restrained by neighbors.

Saturday morning she walked about the ruins with a stick stirring up the charred bits of wood and ashes looking for a flash of light from the missing diamond. She said she especially wanted to find it because it was a present from her mother.

Insurance men say the damage will not exceed $900 to the building and furniture and that the fire was caused by the explosion of a kerosene lamp.

21 KILLED, 30 HURT, IN WRECK, ONE MAN ON TRAIN ESCAPES

Freight Drawn by Two Locomotives Plows Through Car Filled With Excursionists.

NUMBER FATALLY INJURED

Occupants of Coach in Pennsylvania Hurled to Track, Engines Run Over Them.

LIGONIER, Pa., July 6.—Every passenger on a train on the Wilpen branch of the Ligonier Valley Railroad was either killed or wounded, one railroad man alone escaping uninjured, when a heavy freight train crashed into the passenger on a curve near the Denny race-track, one mile from here. Twenty-one persons were killed and 30 injured, a large number perhaps fatally.

The passenger train consisted of an engine and a coach, and the two locomotives pulling the freight train plowed through the coach, hurling passengers from the crushed car. The majority of the passengers were residents along the Wilpen branch, who were returning yesterday afternoon from a Fourth of July celebration.

Imbedded Between Rails.

The dead were brought here, and the injured were placed in hospitals here or sent to hospitals at Pittsburg. Among the injured were Dr. J. B. Johnson of Ligonier, hurt internally, will probably die; Dr. C. A. Hamill of Ligonier, crushed, may die; Walter Serena of McKeesport, Pa., clerk in a bank.

Some passengers fell in the path of the crushing engines, while others were imbedded, partly in the cinders and crushed stones, beside the rails.

Engineer McConnaughey was scalded to death, while his fireman, George Byers, jumped, only to fall on the track and meet death under the wheels. Engineer Smith P. Beatty of the second engine jumped and sustained a broken leg. His fireman, John Ankney, fell beneath a car, his legs were severed and he died en route to a hospital. Engineer Dunlap of the passenger train and his fireman remained at their posts and escaped with slight injuries.

Farmers Go to Rescue.

A pathetic feature of the wreck was the injury of Miss Ether M. Matthews, a nurse, and the death of two and the injury of four children she was taking to the woods near Wilpen for an afternoon's outing.

Farmers near the scene of the accident and workmen employed at the race track were at the wreck within a few minutes.

It will take an investigation to determine the cause of the wreck.

Every day we see YOUNG men and women who have grown prematurely grey. They immediately fall into the "Old Age" class, because grey hairs are so closely associated WITH OLD AGE.

It is extremely discomforting and humiliating to be bald—to be grey when the years do not justify it. The girls laugh at the young man so marred—the young man soon learns to discriminate between natural hair in its full bloom of health and NATURAL COLOR, and shabby looking grey and faded hair.

Give nature a chance. If she is encouraged, stimulated, assisted, she will give you a head of hair that you will be proud of.

HOUSE SERVANTS ORGANIZE GOLDEN RULE KEY TO PROBLEM

MISS MARY BRANNON.

Cincinnati Cook Has Enlisted 30 Fellow Workers in Effort to Raise Status.

CINCINNATI, July 6.

THE constitution and by-laws of the Cincinnati Household Workers' Association, the first organized body of domestics formed in Cincinnati, are based on the Golden Rule. Miss Mary Brannon, by occupation a cook but by inclination and fitness a sociologist, is founder and president of the organization.

Every two weeks the 30 or more servant girls meet in one of the domestic science rooms of Woodward High School, the use of which has been donated to the association by the Cincinnati Board of Education. A domestic science teacher, connected with the summer school, instructs these practical workers in household science, food values and dietetics, also in the chemistry of food.

"What is this going to do for us?" asked Miss Brannon, leader in the uplift movement. And then she answered, "It is going to make us more efficient and therefore more self-respecting. If we respect ourselves and our work at its rightful value, perhaps we can bring society as a whole to respect it also. In that case the domestic service problem is solved."

Miss Brannon holds that domestic work pays better and is far more comfortable than factory work and that if the social chasm between servants and other workers is bridged, the problem will be solved. Here is where the golden rule comes in.

"If we educate ourselves to the point where we can win the respect of our employers and workers in other lines, we have won the battle," she declares.

Miss Emily McVean, dean of the Women of Cincinnati University, obtained the assistance of the Board of Education for Miss Brannon's Association. "I regard this as the most significant movement I have come into contact with," is Miss McVean's estimate.

Tobacco Company Denies Trust Affiliations.

To correct misstatements from Wall street concerning the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., makers of Prince Albert smoking tobacco, and the defunct American Tobacco Co., the former concern has sent broadcast a denial that it was ever managed by the trust. The statement declares that the only part the R. J. Reynolds company had to do with the dissolution of the trust was to make out new stock certificates for various stockholders for the script that was held by the American Tobacco Co.

The denial of the Reynolds corporation, while admitting that it never was any secret that the trust held stock in its concern, it is emphatic in the statement that at no time in the history of either corporation did the trust officials ever try to dominate the Reynolds concern, or in any way attempt to shape its business policies. In fact, the Reynolds company points to the keen competition that always existed between the Reynolds corporation and the Tobacco Trust.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 6.—David Ball of Louisiana, Mo., a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, while in Kansas City today announced he favored equal suffrage for women. This is the way he did it:

"Somebody wants to find out how I stand on woman suffrage, and he? Well, I'll admit I'm for it. Let the good women vote if they want to. But let me tell you this. I don't believe the majority of 'em want to vote and if so, I'm opposed to forcing 'em."

BANK ROBBER SHOT FROM HIS HORSE IN RACE WITH POSSE

Bandit Slain in Running Fight on Iowa Country Road, Pursuer in Auto Wounded.

By Associated Press.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Io., July 6.—The bandit who late yesterday entered the Rome Savings Bank at the little town of Rome, shot Cashier F. W. Hileman and escaped with several hundred dollars in cash, last night was shot and killed by a member of an auto posse which had persued him.

The bandit, who was identified here as Charles Clark, was overtaken by the posse several miles south of here. He was riding a horse. He opened fire on the posse. A running fight ensured.

The bandit for some time succeeded in keeping far enough ahead of the automobiles to avoid being shot. He fired and reloaded his revolver as he raced madly down the country road.

James O. Laughlin, a merchant of Rome, a leader of the posse, was shot in the back but his injury is not serious.

Finally, when the autos had gained on the horseman, and after a volley of shots at him, the bandit was shot through the heart and fell from his horse. The stolen money was recovered, and the body was brought to Mount Pleasant.

The injuries of Cashier Hileman are not serious, it was announced. He was shot in the arms when he refused to comply with the demands of the bandit.

The police are searching for Clark's accomplices, who are believed to have aided him in getting from the bank to the woods, a short distance away, where he was given a horse.

MISS GRACE GEERS, SHOT BY FARMHAND DIES IN HOSPITAL

Illinois Governor Probably Will Increase Reward Offered for Girl's Slayer.

The death of Miss Grace Geers, 23 years old, has redoubled the efforts of Illinois officials to find George Nicholas, a farm hand, who is accused of shooting her and Miss Julia Schmitt, 22 years old, at the Geers home, a mile from Troy, Ill., the night of June 26. It is believed that Gov. Deneen will be asked to increase the $200 reward offered for the capture of Nicholas, who fled on foot after the shooting.

Miss Geers died Friday night at St. Luke's Hospital in St. Louis. She was shot but once, the bullet taking effect in the brain. Miss Schmitt, although shot four times, was not critically injured and is recovering. Miss Schmitt says Nicholas entered the room where she and Miss Geers were in bed and shot them with a repeating rifle.

Nicholas had worked two years for Miss Geers' father, William Geers, and was well liked and trusted. He attended a dance in Troy the night of the shooting. He had been drinking heavily according to those who saw him as he left town.

When Geers ran to his daughter's bedroom, after hearing the shots, he met Nicholas, who calmly told him "somebody had shot the girls." Nicholas stayed at the house until two physicians, whom Miss Schmitt summoned by telephone, had arrived from Troy. Then he walked down the road and vanished. More than a score of officials and other persons, on foot, on horseback and in various vehicles, searched two days and two nights without finding a trace of him.

NEW STRENGTH FOR OLD BACKS

Sound Kidneys Mean More Comfort in the Late Years of Life

The greatest discomforts of old age are poor eyesight, deafness, lame back, stiff, achy joints and kindred ailments.

Very often these troubles come from a weakening of the kidneys.

The kidneys have a heavy task during a long life of filtering the blood and keeping the body free from the irritating effects of uric acid. Kidney weakness usually gets little attention, and it is no wonder if the kidneys break down.

And when the kidneys are sluggish and weak, there is little comfort. Backache is likely to become a constant trouble, lameness in the morning, pains when stooping or lifting, restlessness at night and persistent languor.

Rheumatic pains, stiff joints, dizzy spells and weakness of sight and hearing are often due to the excess of uric acid in the blood. So are gravel and stone, dropsy swellings of the limbs and extremities, heart weakness.

Doan's Kidney Pills have proved a great blessing to many old folks, when taken for backache or to regulate the action of the kidneys and help the kidneys to keep the blood pure.

"Catches me there every time!"

Investigate the cures made by Doan's Kidney Pills. You won't have to go a thousand miles to find out. Here's a St. Louis case:

ST. LOUIS PROOF

Charles A. Juengel, 1841 S. Fourteenth st., St. Louis, Mo., says: "I still have unlimited confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills and you may continue to publish my endrosement of them for the benefit of other kidney sufferers. It was two years ago that I first recommended Doan's Kidney Pills, and the time that has since passed has only strengthened my regard for them. I was subject to attacks of backache and in the morning when I got up I was stiff and lame. As the day advanced the latter trouble wore off, but toward night it came on again, particularly if I had done much stooping. A short use of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from the Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., removed the trouble. On various occasions since then other members of my family have taken Doan's Kidney Pills with excellent results."

REVIEWS OF NEW BOOKS

"MASTERING FLAME."

HERE, indeed, is a notable book, an extraordinary psychological tale, woven around the eternal triangle, adroitly guarded from the offense of sensualism and treating the love motive in its mental rather than its physical aspect.

The identity of the author is hidden behind an interrogation mark, but whether he or she is an old star or a new one, the light thereof is destined to add greatly to the brilliancy of our literary firmament. The London Post names the writer as an American D'Annunzio, but "Mastering Flame's" creator is far too decent in handling the subject to be classed with the erotic Italian poet.

One of the chief features of the book is its intimate presentation of life in the foreign colony of Hongkong, most of the characters being so definitely delineated that the reader is forced to the conclusion that they are true and faithful portraits of real persons.

Lilith Armistead is a wondrously beautiful woman with long, gray eyes shading to green, red-gold hair and skin like rosehued ivory. Though she inherited from her Spanish mother an elemental nature, she remains faithful to the conventions, with no passion even after her marriage to a prosaic money grubber save for flaming colors. She is as shallow as she is beautiful, and John Armistead, the foolish husband, shows his small understanding of her by calling her "Lil."

Randal Wayne, good to look upon and steeped in the mysticism of the East, is United States Consul at Hongkong. Thither go John Armistead and his wife. The Lilith that Wayne sees is a more glorious and worshipful creature than her husband ever dreamed. She is a fascinating book to be read and studied. Wayne, being studious in such things, delves deeply into the subject before him and comes out enthralled.

As Lilith affects him, so does he, the antithesis of her husband, affect her, and she reciprocates his love. Right there, the conventions would go to pieces if Wayne were not too much of a man to betray his friend, the unsuspecting husband. He masters the flame until events take them apart again. But separation convinces them they cannot live without each other and she starts to him across the sea that lies between.

The succeeding episode sounds the only harsh note in the symphony and there doubtless will be much debate on the degree of artistry that it involves. The author wishes to spare the reader the usual divorce or man-killing, so Lilith perishes in a fire on the ship that is carrying her from the man to whom she is bound by law to the one to whom she is bound merely by love. It is a charitable view that the intent is not to be condemned as greatly as the deed.

"Mastering Flame" is not full of "incident" and there is nothing to thrill in any of its "situations," but the psychological analysis of the woman's awakened love—of her transformation from "Lil" to Lilith—fills every page brimful of interest. (Kinnerly.)

"SEEGAR AND CIGAREET."

THIS unusually good dog story is dedicated to "Bide-a-Wee, the Home of Friendless Animals," by Jack Hines, the author. The attractive illustrations are by Philip R. Goodwin. It is the story of two Alaskan wolf dogs' love for each other, and is quite as moving and pathetic as if it involved men instead of mere brutes. In the savage elements of pioneer surroundings, the self-sacrifice of two dumb animals sets a standard of heroism for their driver. Hines does in a new way what Dr. John Brown has done in "Rab and His Friends," revealing the true nobility of the lower creation, and making it an example for compassionate kindness. (Doran.)

"HECTOR GRAEME."

THE seeker after bizarre literary effect has no limit for his quest, either in the earth, the waters under the earth or the heavens above it. All three of these domains furnish more or less of the materials for a powerful book by Evelyn Brentford, which is called "Hector Graeme."

It is the life story of a young Englishman who starts out a braggart, becomes a neurotic and ends a great, cruel world-genius, mad as a hatter, yet greater than Caesar or Napoleon. It offers rather daring excursions into psychic realms, while its mundane ventures are scarcely less daring.

Hector Graeme is at the beginning a young English army officer who is as superior to his fellows in many accomplishments as he is disliked by them. Through some subtlety of personality he fascinates Lucy Caldwell, a spirited English girl who at the same time dislikes him and loves him, and marries her out of hand. His supreme egotism makes him a barrack-room butt until he accomplishes a mysterious and terrible revenge over a traducer, a revenge which makes him feared but none the less detested. Throughout his youth he shows flashes of what appears to be inspiration, himself scarcely understanding its source.

It is not until after he comes under the influence of a powerful love for Stara Selbourne, a woman he met on a voyage to England, that his physical decline and his mental exaltation really begins. From that time on he dances as a cork on a current of superhuman influences. After a tempestuous career he finds himself called to defend his country from overwhelming disaster on the field of battle. He succeeds, and in the moment of supreme triumph finds the end for which he himself has sought. (Lane.)

"IN TEMPE VALE"

IN Tempe vale the sun shines fair,
O'er crystal streams forever flowing—
On Tempe's rainbow-girdled air
The velvet-breasted flowers are blowing,
And up the valley, everywhere,
The golden orange groves are glowing—
And violets uplift their eyes,
Bewildering, to the stooping skies,
Dreaming all day of Paradise;
And bluebells from the tufted sod,
When darkness down Olympus dies,
Outstretch their pearly palms to God,
And pour their fragrant sacrifice,
And all the world is in a trance
Along Peneus' blue expanse,
In Tempe vale.

In Tempe vale no sound of wars
Goes ever to the mild-eyed stars;
No lily's breast is tinged with blood,
No dreamer from his rest is driven,
But ever from the drowsy wood
There floateth to the jeweled heaven
Eternal lullabies, like those
That murmur in the crimson rose;
Or like the symphonies that break
From out some lone enchanted lake;
Or like the rhapsodies that quiver
By night along some sacred river—
Ah, only the holiest things of earth
Spring into beauty and to birth
In Tempe vale.

In Tempe vale no bough is stirred,
No winds are in the conscious tree;
The only melodies there heard—
Except the trill of some wild bird,
Or tumult of the tippling bee—
Are those dim strains of minstrelsy
That tingle to the twilight stars
From laughing lutes and low guitars
On many a Grecian lover's knee;
And dark-eyed maids, with lips of wine
And limbs of snow, their tresses twine
By fountains flashing from the hills,
And all the golden ether spills
A summer splendor round the vine,
In Tempe vale.

In Tempe vale, in Tempe's bowers,
The soul, intoxicate with bliss,
Goes reeling through a world of flowers
That hath no counterpart in this;
And far beneath the lote tree's shade,
Where glow worms glimmer in the grass,
Is heard the lonely serenade
Of some heart-broken nightingale;
And dew drops, like a sea of glass,
Their love-lights up the valley trail
Until the night-tide shadows pass
And daylight dawns o'er Tempe vale,
O'er Tempe vale.

In Tempe vale they weave the dance
Along its lone, star-lighted river,
By those wild grottoes of romance
O'er which the mellow citrons quiver,
And laughing love lives on forever!
Ah, nightly to the cithern's sigh
The Muses, from their haunts on high,
Come tripping hither, every one—
And Pan, and young Endymion,
And Dian, with her dapper crew,
The piping shepherd lads, and all
The Dryads o'er the mountain wall,
Come thronging to the revel, too,
In Tempe vale.

To Tempe vale, a long good-night!
The glamor of my idle dream
Is overpast. My waking sight,
Alas! is blinded to the gleam
And beauty of that valley bright.
Its blissful bowers no more I see,
Its peaceful paths have passed from view,
Yet down to the Aegean Sea
Still fall its winding waters blue,
Still sings the bird and hums the bee
In every nook the dreamer knew.
No summer poet's fickle thought
On Fancy's pinions ever sought
A spot with sweeter raptures fraught,
Than Tempe vale.

"THE PENITENT."

THE single standard of morality or immorality, is taught tentatively, and without indelicacy, in Rene Basin's simply-told tale of a poor Brittany farmer and his pretty wife, whose temporary separation when need forces the wife to take employment in Paris stretches into years at the wife's choosing for the sake of greater ease. Each lapses from fidelity. Each, knowing of the other's lapse, forgives for the sake of the children and the single standard is upheld at least so far as an equal share of forgiveness is concerned. Although the characters are entirely commonplace the story provides an evening's entertaining reading. (Lippincott.)

HOME STUDY TEXT-BOOKS.

THE Home University Library of Modern Knowledge has been expanded to 46 volumes by the addition of "The History of England," by A. F. Pollard; "English Literature: Medieval," by W. P. Ker. "English Sects," by W. B. Selbie; "Canada," by A. G. Bradley; "Problems of Philosophy," by Bertrand Russell; "Peoples and Problems of India," by T. W. Holderness; "Anthropology," by R. R. Marett; "Architecture," by W. R. Lethaby;" "Reconstruction and Union," by P. L. Haworth; "The English Language," by L. P. Smith; "Psychology," by W. McDougall; "The Principles of Physiology," by J. G. McKendrick; "Matter and Energy," by F. Soddy; and "Buddhism," by Mrs. Rhys David.

For the student who knows something of the subjects or has access to a good encyclopedia, these compact, condensed little volumes are of the most value. Each book is by an expert in his field, and the average reader can gain an insight into the several subjects by careful study of the volumes. Having to cover so much ground, the authors have, in several of the books, had to assume considerable knowledge on the reader's part. As a whole, however, this set of text-books is probably the best that has been produced for the low price of 50 cents a volume. (Holt.)

MOTH BOOK DE LUXE.

IN our young days, moths were winged things that flew into candle flames or ate holes in cloth. Today they are objects of ardent study and, with their cousins, the butterflies, figure in numerous articles in Nature magazines and fill many-paged volumes. This is since Holland wrote and illustrated his "Moth Book," a companion to his "Butterfly Book," both works of authority, and Comstock set the fashion of giving the life-histories of insects from the sympathetic and intimate point of view. The most recent book in Comstock's style is a beautifully illustrated study of our most aristocratic moths, entitled, "Moths of the Limberlost," by Gene Stratton-Porter. Limberlost, concerning which Mr. Stratton-Porter has given us a popular romance, is a stretch of country in Northeastern Indiana, once covered with forest and swamp and still rich in the beauties of wild nature. In his studies of the birds of that region, the author found himself getting intensely interested in its lepidopterous inhabitants, and the present book is the product of five or six years spent in collecting, breeding and photographing the most attractive and rarest moths—those that vie with the large and gorgeous specimens of butterflies in shape and color. The student of this branch of the tree of life will find that Mr. Stratton-Porter's pictures are

TALBOT MUNDY, THE WRITER, IS DIVORCED

Former English Army Officer Made no Defense to Wife's Charges.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Mrs. Inez Miller Mundy, once the wife of the Hon. Rupert Craven, brother of the Earl of Craven, was granted a divorce today from Talbot Chetwynd Mundy, former English army officer and now a magazine writer.

Supreme Court Justice Henrik signed an interlocutory decree. The suit was undefended.

Mrs. Mundy was Inez Morton Brome. She was born in Buckinghamshire, England, and is about 35 years old. Rupert Craven, whose brother, the Earl, married Cornelia Bradley Martin of this city, divorced her in Mombassa, British East Africa, in 1907. Shortly afterward, Mundy, who was named as corespondent, married her.

Mundy is a son of the Earl of Shrewsbury. After his marriage he went to England with his wife. They came to this country a year ago last May and have lived here since. In January Mundy left his wife. Soon afterward Mrs. Mundy began her divorce proceeding and the case was tried in June.

RIVER IMPROVEMENT PLANKS.

The tufts of grass growing in interstices of the levee's granite block pavement show an increase this year and give a decided touch of green to the slope at several places between Olive and Market street. In the vicinity of the Harbor Master's office is a stretch that a proper use of mower and fertilizer would easily convert into an attractive lawn. Humorists of color along the water front are speaking of the promising prospect for a fine levee hay crop in August.

Much use is made of the levee, though it is not such a use as would result from a full utilization of our waterway's possibilities. The improvement that will enable us to realize those possibilities cannot be delayed much longer. The Chicago and Baltimore platforms pledge both of the old parties—the Democrats more completely—to the improvement of the Mississippi. If there is a third party, its platform will undoubtedly contain the same pledge.

In the meantime, as the rush of traffic will not prevent the levee from becoming grass-grown in places, the city might take special measures to see that the pasture tufts do not become too luxuriant.

Mr. Gompers is dissatisfied with the labor planks in the Chicago platform. What did he expect from a body under Barnes-Crane-Penrose control?

OPTIMISTIC SENATOR LA FOLLETTE.

Senator La Follette demands the details of Mr. Roosevelt's 1912 campaign fund. The Senator is too optimistic. The Post-Dispatch for nearly eight years has been demanding the details of Mr. Roosevelt's 1904 campaign and has not got all of them yet.

Talk about the election being thrown into the House of Representatives has become idle speculation since Tuesday. Gov. Wilson will have no difficulty in getting a big Electoral College majority.

POLITICAL USE OF THE INITIATIVE.

A plan to redistrict Missouri under the initiative and referendum received enthusiastic support two years ago. It was energetically pushed by Republican leaders and the petitions received an excess of the signatures of the rank and file. The measure was denied a place on the ballot because it had been fantastically proposed as an amendment to the State Constitution, instead of to the statute law.

This year an attempt to employ the direct legislation machinery in the enactment of a redistricting statute fails through inertia. Republican leaders have been indifferent and the petitions lacked the legal percentage of signatures, though work on the movement began months ago.

Does not the contrast in the experience of the two years show a change in the public's attitude toward the initiative and referendum? The political motive was the same in both years. Existing redistricting laws are no less unfair now than then. Is it not realized that there are few measures to which the direct legislation principle is less suited than to one involving the complex details of an apportionment scheme?

The novelty of the new reform devices is wearing off. They are not toys to be played with by every one with a fad or a political grievance. Their unwieldiness and cost must confine them to the natural uses of a mere auxiliary to the ordinary legislative machinery to be invoked only under exceptional circumstances.

That a suit over a New York insurance company, just decided, had been pending 92 years is hardly as remarkable as that $3000 remained to be distributed.

From Oklahoma comes a story of grasshoppers so big and ferocious they kill poultry. Oklahoma should swat 'um.

A RISKY COMBINATION.

Gov. Hadley is quoted as saying that he is not in favor of forming a third party, but that the friends of Col. Roosevelt will nominate Roosevelt electors by petition and place the Republican State and local candidates on the ballot.

The Governor adds that he will continue in the regular Republican organization, but his friends say he will not support Mr. Taft.

How can he, in view of his own denunciation of the Taft majority in the Chicago convention as a barefaced steal?

How can he indorse a stolen nomination which he himself said does not represent the will of the Republican voters, but a fraud which denied and defied their will?

Gov. Stubbs of Kansas says the Kansas Republican party is already Rooseveltized. The Roosevelt electoral ticket will be submitted to the voters at the State primary to be ratified, and the defeat of Mr. Taft in Kansas will be accomplished.

Gov. Deneen of Illinois is reputed to be wavering. He sees the necessity of a Roosevelt electoral ticket to save the Illinois party from destruction.

The game is plain. Roosevelt electors are to be nominated with state and local tickets to keep the Roosevelt men in line for state and local candidates. The Republican state organizations are to be held together for future use by the combination of both Taft and Roosevelt electors with the state and local tickets. The progressives expect to take possession of them after the wiping out of Mr. Taft and his reactionary machine.

The conspicuous thing in this ingenious scheme of practical politics is the possibility of helping out the utter weakness of the Taft candidacy. The combination may be good for the party organization, but what of the people? Sensible Republican progressives will realize the risk of attempting to beat Mr. Taft and destroy his predatory machine by running Roosevelt and Taft electors and will cast their ballots where they will do the most good—on the side of the progressive Democratic candidate. Progressive Republican votes for Woodrow Wilson will count twice, against Mr. Taft and for a progressive administration.

The predicament of the Republican organization is pitiable. The steam roller crushed the progressive wing, but it also flattened out the reactionary body. The old organization is moribund. The salvation of the progressives lies in putting an end to it and constructing a new organization which will serve their ends.

Election being only four months away, the tariff reform Republicans of the Senate withdraw from the arrangement with the Democrats of the body to co-operate until after the voting with the stand-patters of their own party.

DELEGATED BY DESTINY.

In expressing his gratitude to those who have helped "to roll away the stone from the sepulcher of democracy," Dr. Delos F. Wilcox, in the preface to his book, "Government by All the People," published last month by the Macmillan Company of New York, includes the name of Woodrow Wilson. This preface is dated April 19, 1912, and contains words that have been more than justified by the results of the two national conventions that have been held since that date. Dr. Wilcox said: "The split between plutocratic Democrats and democratic Democrats and between standpat Republicans and progressive Republicans yawns deeper and more unbridgable than the ancient fissure between mere Democrats and mere Republicans. The earth has been quaking of late and new cracks are appearing on its surface. A realignment of political parties is presently inevitable. The quarrel is about the nature of government. Is it a private industry, or a public enterprise?"

Dr. Wilcox, acute as he proved himself, could scarcely have foreseen how admirably Woodrow Wilson was destined to unite democratic Democrats and progressive Republicans, between whom no fissure yawns that cannot be easily bridged before next November. What Col. Roosevelt was ambitious to do for personal reasons, Gov. Wilson is able to do upon grounds of the public welfare. No menace of Caesarism and the third term envelops Wilson with a dark cloud, subjecting him to the suspicions of myriads of voters.

The earth ceased to quake when Col. Roosevelt was defeated at Chicago, and the last crack closed up when Woodrow Wilson was nominated at Baltimore. Now there is only a plain political duty to be performed, that of electing the man who best represents the progressive sentiment of a whole nation.

Unless he hastens, Mr. Taft will be unable to have a disastrous row in all the departments before March 4. So far he has only had the Glavis-Ballinger row in the Interior Department, the Pinchot-Wilson row in the Forestry Service, the Andrews-MacVeagh row in the Treasury and the succession of Wiley-McCabe-et-al rows in the Pure Food Bureau.

BUCHANAN, JOHNSON, TAFT.

The disclosures contained in the letter of resignation addressed by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury A. Piatt Andrew to President Taft came as a shock to the business element of the American people. That such a state of affairs should exist in the United States Treasury Department is almost incredible, but Mr. Andrew's reputation as an authority on financial topics is too well established to admit a doubt of his capacity to criticise Secretary MacVeagh.

However, it is to President Taft's part in these transactions that we desire to call attention. If Secretary MacVeagh is an incompetent, querulous, procrastinating, reactionary official, what are we to think of the man who has so long retained him in his Cabinet, and now releases Mr. Andrew when he should demand the resignation of Mr. MacVeagh?

Mr. Taft stuck to Ballinger till the whole country was disgusted and only gave him up because public opinion was too powerful to be resisted further. There is a growing feeling that Mr. Taft's administration is doomed to go out as another sad exhibition of futility, weakness and littleness in high places. Are we to witness a repetition, in a twentieth century setting, of the follies, failures and obstinate stupidities that characterized the closing days of the administrations of Buchanan and Andrew Johnson?

The American people will breathe one vast sigh of relief on the morning of Nov. 6 as they read the voters' notice to President Taft to vacate the White House March 4, 1913.

Things look less hopeful for Mr. Lorimer than for that other eminent Illinoisan, Mr. Darrow.

Mr. Orozco, much the worse for wear, seems almost out of the ring.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Street Car Manners.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The other morning it happened that I was compelled to ride to town in a Park avenue car, just at the hour when office people were going to work. As I entered I noticed seven other women beside myself standing, and every man in the car was comfortably seated—part of them unable to forget their good breeding, hiding behind newspapers—and not one offered his place to a lady, although there was one old lady, and a younger one trying to keep on her feet with an infant in her arms.

The street car company has appropriated six seats to gentlemen (?) who wish to smoke. The men not only occupy these rear seats, but they also take up every other seat availbale. Some of these smokers are rude enough to smoke when a woman sits down beside them or in front of them, and to impudently blow the smoke directly in her face. I have never seen this breach of etiquette even in Chicago.

I believe if St. Louis men knew what a splendid reputation they have elsewhere for good breeding, culture and natural refinement, they would certainly not exhibit their total lack of breeding in so public a place and so rude a manner.

St. Louis Needs Transients.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Commercially measured the head of your correspondent signing, "Anti Zoo," must be about the size of a pin head. St. Louis may now be a city of happy homes, but happiness depends somewhat upon prosperity, which, in turn, depends upon a city's proportion of out-of-town visitors. This city is motoring behind her big sister cities in transient population, and hence, instead of having too many transients now, needs as many more as a first-class zoological garden can attract.

Hydrophobia a Symptom of Rabies.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If Dr. Faber will give the names of the four victims of hydrophobia for whom he issued death certificates in St. Louis, I will then show by the official mortality list that all the physicians in the city do not have that many cases in a year. If the germ pre-existed in the wolf and transmitted to the dog why during this transition period from the wolf to the dog, the germ did not undergo a metamophorsis? If hydrophobia is not dependent on temperature why does the Board of Health require muzzling of dogs only during the summer months?

I can prove to the doctor by eminent authority in St. Louis and Europe that hydrophobia is only symptomatic and dependent on no pre-existent germ.

J. L. ROYSTON.

Street-Car Smoking.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Kansas City passengers have voted to discontinue smoking in street cars, the question having been left to them. In this connection it may be said that cigarette smoke, much as it is denounced, carries a fontarabian odor compared with that of some of the "tobacco" in cigars and pipes.

H. W. PUFFINGHAM.

"Labor—Omnia Vincit?"

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The sons of toil are organized—or rather, disorganized—on a basis that exposes their ship to every gun of the enemy. Enough of the horny-handed sons of toil in St. Louis are card members of a craft to keep out and unorganized about 90 per cent of the wage earners. The aristocratic bricklayer or plumber has no sympathy with the gang of laborers struggling Saturday afternoon to get wages enough to pay grocery bills till Monday. The plumber is afraid if the sewer digger gets what he is entitled to, that he, the plumber, will not get so much. It is hard to conjecture just what this trade union brother would allot to the many ranks of his inferiors were it in his power to set their wages. Perhaps the plumber would get $9 per day and the garbage man 10 bits. Anyway it would never do for a common laborer to get more than a minor portion of the craft unionists' average. To lift up the fallen is not the tenet of the leaders of the labor movement in this city or elsewhere.

Unorganized labor is between the devil and the deep sea—between the bosses who take advantage of their lack of organization, and the labor leaders who have made the unions so exclusive that they amount to a labor aristocracy.

Ye multitudes of disorganized humanity, go to the primaries in August and vote your class into power. One big union—one big Socialist party. Make this country over and fashion it in the likeness of Him who said "Sell that thou hast, give to the poor and come and follow Me." Yours for the coming kingdom.

CAMPMEETING JIM.

Leave Smokers Their Seats.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A few women object to the men smoking in the street cars. I don't know whether their objections are real or whether they like to see their names in print so much that this subject is used as a means. Smoking is permitted on the six rear seats only, and yet a great many women will take these seats when there are quite a number of vacant ones farther forward.

A SMOKER.

MR. BRYAN'S MONEY.

From the Springfield (Mo.) Leader.

One of the Baltimore speakers denounced Mr. Bryan as a rich man and seemed to think the commoner is a malfactor of great wealth. It is probably true that Mr. Bryan is worth about $1,000,000, and it is probably true that he said at one time that no man can honestly earn so large a sum, but he has probably changed his opinion now. It certainly is possible for a man to earn $1,000,000 honestly and even a much greater sum. There is really no reason why Mr. Bryan should not be worth $10,000,000 or more if he lives to be 80 or 90 years old. It would seem that he now has an income of $100,000 a year, and he does not spend any considerable part of that for living expenses. His mode of life is rather plain and simple and so far he has not shown any disposition to make large gifts to charity.

Men of brains can always get rich in this country honestly and no matter what anyone may think of Mr. Bryan's political views very few would say that he is not a man of great ability. This applies somewhat to the financial side as well as to his ability as a politician. Of course there would have been more harmony at Baltimore if it hadn't been fully understood that no matter what was done Taft could be easily beaten.

Undertaker's View.

From the Philadelphia Record.

"Well, a man can only die once," remarked the philosopher.

"Yes, quite easy to," replied the undertaker.

THE BELOVED VAGABOND

TRIBUTE FROM UNDERWOOD'S HOME.

Editor F. P. Glass in Birmingham (Ala.) News.

The News very properly takes pride in seeing at Baltimore yesterday the realization of a judgment expressed early in Gov. Wilson's political career. The prediction was based on a thorough knowledge of the man's superb combination of equipment, manliness and industry.

No man in the world has known better the history and the spirit of American institutions.

No man in public life has developed in a higher degree the truest manliness.

No man in any relation of life has shown greater industry.

No man has shown greater interest in latter-day political and social problems. He loves his brethren and believes in service.

No man has shown more loyal devotion to the interests of all classes of people, or more practical commonsense in working out the problems of this generation.

It is not surprising that with such an equipment and such a courageous devotion to the needs of the hour he has made an unprecedented success in routing bosses and uprooting bossism. His chief undertaking has been to restore representative government, to provide for the fullest operation of the intelligence and conscience of the people through their honestly elected servants and their constitutional channels.

He has said that he seeks conservative ends through progressive methods and policies.

It is a lucid and apt statement. He will never usurp legislative or judicial powers. He will never enter upon distinctly destructive policies, unless in the work of construction it is necessary to destroy rotten growth. He may use the knife, but never dynamite.

Gov. Wilson is deliberate, cautious, painstaking, but once having decided on a course as wise and just, he is firm, tenacious, steadfast, determined. No man has ever dominated him, and none ever will. He is most approachable for counsel, but never vacillating or indecisive. He is self-reliant, but not self-centered, vain or afflicted with megalomania.

It is doubtful whether Roosevelt's movement for a new party will survive the withering power of Wilson's great light. The "Schoolmaster" will enroll the longest line of pupils in the science of government ever known.

The South is back to the Union. A Southern man, vibrating with every noble instinct, sympathy and ideals of the Old South, inspired with every ambition of the New, is in the saddle. A new regime is in sight for the nation, for the South, for the Democracy.

"Plain People."

From the Washington Star.

"Why do you object to women in politics?"

"Because," replied the statesman, "I put my faith in the plain people. And no woman will consent to be classified as plain."

China's Strange Attitude.

From the Washington Post.

China has refused a loan of $300,000,000. There is a splendid opening over yonder for the alienists when they have exhausted the resources of the Tsaw estate.

JUST A MINUTE.

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Clark McAdams.

DIRGE.

But sadder still
In this refrain,
The Fourth has Broken out again,
And in its
Recrudescence bold
Has laid a lot
Of people cold.

In Buffalo, they say,
A man
Put giant powder
In a can,
And going back
To fix the fuse,
They only found
His hat and shoes.

A boy in Maine
Took rockets three,
And deftly fired
Them from a tree,
And one or two things
That he set,
At last accounts,
Were burning yet.

The course of progress,
We have found,
Is pretty much
Around and round,
But even so,
We can't refrain
From groans at
Passing here again.

ONWARD AND UPWARD.

While the Democratic party was reaffirming its allegiance to things which are probably of no importance at all, it might have renounced its allegiance to these:

1. Wide-brim hats.
2. Black string ties.
3. A drink before breakfast.
4. Party leaders who look like the Sheriff in "The Girl of the Golden West."
5. The good fellow theory of government as opposed to the right man for the place.
6. "Voting her straight."
7. Gumshoes.
8. Tucked shirts.
9. Vardaman hair.

This would have been real progressiveness.

While it is true that no one knows what a day will bring forth, the chances are that it will be something about Roosevelt.

Popular indifference as to how a political fight is won is the principal reason why so many of them are won unfairly.

"Are you for equal suffrage?"

"No. A candidate has to kiss enough babies now, without having to please their mammas, too."

THE BILL PERIOD.

There is reason to believe that the country has emerged from the Bill period. Only one Bill is running for President this time, and he isn't running very fast. The Democratic party, which has courageously put the past behind it and come out for the new progressive theory of government, hasn't a Bill anywhere on the ticket.

The Bill period is very well defined in political philosophy. It is an early stage of political growth, makes very few contributions to material progress, and does not usually last very long. An occasional Bill is greater than his period, as Mr. Bryan has been, for instance. There have also been sporadic instances of extreme brilliance, as Shakspeare was. The average Bill—Mr. Taft, perhaps, is a fair illustration—is just a Bill, and that is about all.

Bills are good fellows. They organize Bill clubs, and that sort of thing. A bad Bill, as Mr. Barnes is, for example, rarely occurs. As a rule, Bills are too easy-going and too easily wheedled to make great executives. Upon the other hand, they make excellent lodge members, and are characterized by a thorough-going good nature, which endears them to a great many people.

We are well out of the Bill period. There was little in it but Bills.

CORONER'S COCKTAIL.

BROKE.

I don't consider I am broke,
At least not what's considered such,
Until the wife refuses when
I go to her to make a touch.
—Detroit Free Press.

And even then there is a chance,
Althought of course, the crime is rank,
That there may be in time of need
Some coppers in the baby's bank.
—Boston Globe.

And if the baby's bank is not
In funds, and leaves you in distress,
You might climb out at night and hunt
The pocket in your helpmeet's dress.
—Houston Post.

Or failing that resort for funds,
You still may cautiously invade
The kitchen cabinet and find
A dime belonging to the maid.

Neither convention was very kind to Col. Roosevelt.

INCREDIBLE.

Molly: Have you read this list of things the federated club women want?

Coddle: Yes. It is wonderful.

Molly: Why wonderful?

Coddler: It is wonderful that even one woman should be able to get all the things she wants in a list of that length.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

BEAUTY CULTURE.

ANXIOUS.—For hair too oily, wash every fortnight with one of the floating soaps and warm water.

NEW READER.—To smooth elbows: Apply good cleansing cream over the entire elbow and well along the arm. Wipe away with soft cloth. Now spread thick layer of massage cream over elbow, bending arm gently to allow to fill all wrinkles and fissures. Begin the treatment with a mild rotary movement administered with the tips of the fingers. Start from the very point of your elbow, gradually widening the circle until the entire back of the elbow is covered. Repeat this movement six times, increasing the depth of the massage as you progress. For inside of arm repeat this entire treatment a trifle less vigorously. When both sides of the joint have been covered by the finger rotary movement go over them again, this time using the thumbs. Make sure there is plenty of massage cream on, the surface being covered. After a deep massage take the flat palm of the hand and iron out the wrinkles. Kneading has made the muscles and tissues of the elbow pliable, so that a firm stroke across these fissures has the effect of an iron on a wrinkled piece of cloth. When the elbows glow with warmth, saturate a sponge with a good astringent such as will remove any remaining cream without destroying its softening influence. Follow the astringent with a gentle stroking, using a soft cloth for this purpose. Do not powder the massaged parts, as this will clog the pores and prevent them from breathing properly.

HEALTH HINTS.

JAMES—To remove rust from metal, cover with sweet oil, rub in well, let stand 48 hours. With a piece of cotton wool apply oil freely, then rub well with powdered unslaked lime.

W. W.—A physician says treatment of insomnia is chiefly a matter of regulating habits and activities to correspond to needs of body. Moderate exercise, spending considerable time out of doors, regulation of diet and bowels all tend to bring about normal sleep. The evening meal should be neither heavy nor taken late. A warm bath of brief duration, followed by a rubdown, will do much good. A glass of hot milk, with perhaps a cracker, may be taken just before retiring. Last, but not least, do your thinking during the daytime.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

CARRIER'S WIFE.—Mirror formulas have been repeatedly published. See them at this office.

CLARA.—Butter scotch: Boil one cup sugar, one of butter, one of molasses until it hardens when dropped into cold water. Spread thinly in pans and mark in little squares.

X. Y. Z.—Divinity candy: Take one third cup of syrup and fill up cup with cold water; add two cups sugar (granulated) and boil until it forms a soft ball when dropped in water. Take from fire and add slowly the stiffly beaten white of one egg. Beat vigorously while dropping in the egg. When it thickens, add one cup chopped nuts. Pour into buttered tins and cut into squares.

LAW POINTS.

GCZ—Write it Kriss Kringle.

P. N.—Neither boy nor man may shoot squirrels without a license.

A. B.—Fine of $5 to $50 for planting or setting out tree on street without permit from City Forester. No permit necessary for tree on private property.

NUSHAN.—Any presidential candidate who calls another presidential candidate vile names may be sued for slander by the person to whom the names are applied.

X. Y. Z.—A note is good for 10 years from maturity; for instance if it is dated Sept. 18, 1902, and payable one year after date, the limitation begins to run from Sept. 18, 1903, being 10 years from time it became due.

C. W. B.—The constitution, which is above any state law or challenger, says that all persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state in which they reside.

READER.—The State makes no requirements of a merchant retailing oleomargarine after he has obtained a license, except that he must see to it that the package is labeled on the top and sides, with the words "Substitute for Butter," in printed letters in plain Roman type, each of which shall not be less than one inch in length and one inch in width; and of course it becomes his duty that neither must he nor his agent sell this product for other than what it is.

READER.—The general rule is that a check is good so long as there is money in the account against which it is drawn, although a bank might hesitate to pay a check not presented within a reasonable time. The discontinuance of the account against which a check is drawn leaves it in the hands of the payee as evidence of debt. It has been held in the case of the suspension of the bank on which the check is drawn, that the drawer of the check is discharged from all obligation if the check was not presented with due promptness such as a prudent man would exercise in the usual course of business.

THE GENTLE GRAFTER

A Series of Stories by the Late O. HENRY (Sidney Porter)

THE EXACT SCIENCE OF MATRIMONY

"AS I have told you before," said Jeff Peters, "I never had much confidence in the perfidiousness of woman. As partners or coeducators in the most innocent line of graft they are not trustworthy."

"They deserve the compliment," said I. "I think they are entitled to be called the honest sex."

"Why should they be?" said Jeff. "They've got the other sex either grafting or working overtime for 'em. They're all right in business until they get their emotions or their hair touched up too much. Then you want to have a flatfooted, heavy breathing man with sandy whiskers, five kids and a building and loan mortgage ready as an understudy to take her desk. Now there was that widow lady that me and Andy Tucker engaged to help us in that little matrimonial agency scheme we floated in Cairo.

"When you've got enough advertising capital—say a roll as big as the little end of a wagon tongue—there's money in matrimonial agencies. We had about $6000 and we expected to double it in two months, which is about as long as a scheme like ours can be carried on without taking out a New Jersey charter.

"We fixed up an advertisement that read about like this:

> Charming widow, beautiful, home-loving, 32 years, possessing $3000 cash and owning valuable country property, would remarry. Would prefer a poor man with affectionate disposition to one with means, as she realizes that the solid virtues are oftenest to be found in the humble walks of life. No objection to elderly man or one of homely appearance if faithful and true and competent to manage property and invest money with judgment. Ad., with particulars, Lonely, care of Peters & Tucker, agents, Cairo, Ill.

"'So far, so pernicious,' says I, when we had finished the literary concoction. 'And now,' says I, 'where is the lady?'

"'Andy gives me one of his looks of calm irritation.

"'Jeff,' says he, 'I thought you had lost them ideas of realism in your art. Why should there be a lady? When they sell a lot of watered stock on Wall street should you expect to find a mermaid in it? What has a matrimonial ad got to do with a lady?'

"'Now listen,' says I. 'You know my rule, Andy, that in all my illigitimate inroads against the legal letter of the law the article sold must be existent, visible, producible. In that way and by a careful study of city ordinances and train schedules I have kept out of trouble with the police that a five dollar bill and a cigar could not square. Now, to work this scheme we've got to be able to produce bodily a charming widow or its equivalent with or without the beauty, hereditaments and appurtenances set forth in the catalogue and writ of errors, or hereafter be held by a justice of the peace.'

"'Well,' says Andy, reconstructing his mind, 'maybe it would be safer in case the postoffice or the peace commission should try to investigate our agency. But where,' he says, 'could you hope to find a widow who would waste time on a matrimonial scheme that had no matrimony in it?'

"I told Andy that I thought I knew of the exact party. An old friend of mine, Zeke Trotter, who used to draw soda water and teeth in a tent show, had made his wife a widow a year before by drinking some dyspepsia cure of the old doctor's instead of the liniment that he always got boozed up on. I used to stop at their house often, and I thought we could get her to work with us.

"'Twas only 60 miles to the little town where she lived, so I jumped out on the I. C. and finds her in the same cottage with the same sunflowers and roosters standing on the washtub. Mrs. Trotter at our ad first rate except, maybe for beauty and age and property valuation. But she looked feasible and praisworthy to the eye, and it was a kindness to Zeke's memory to give her the job.

"'Is this an honest deal you are putting on, Mr. Peters,' she asks me when I tell her what we want.

"'Mrs. Trotter,' says I, 'Andy Tucker and me have computed the calculation that 3000 men in this broad and unfair country will endeavor to secure your fair hand and ostensible money and property through our advertisement. Out of that number something like thirty hundred will expect to give you in exchange, if they should win you, the carcass of a lazy and mercenary loafer, a failure in life, a swindler and contemptible fortune seeker.

"'Me and Andy,'" says I, 'propose to teach these preyers upon society a lesson. It was with difficulty,' says I, 'that me and Andy could refrain from forming a corporation under the tile of the Great Moral and Millennial Malevolent Matrimonial Agency. Does that satisfy you?'

"'It does, Mr. Peters,' says she. 'I might have known you wouldn't have gone into anything that wasn't opprobrious. But what will my duties be? Do I have to reject personally these 3000 ramscallions you speak of, or can I throw them out in bunches?'

"'Your job, Mrs. Trotter,' says I, 'will be practically a cynosure. You will live at a quiet hotel and will have no work to do. Andy and I will attend to all the correspondence and business end of it.'

"'Of course,' says I, 'some of the more ardent and impetuous suitors who can raise the railroad fare may come to Cairo to personally press their suit or whatever fraction of a suit they may be wearing. In that case you will be probably put to the incenvenience of kicking them out face to face. We will pay you $25 per week and hotel expenses.'

"'Give me 5 minutes,' says Mrs. Trotter, 'to get my powder rag and leave the front door key with a neighbor and you can let my salary begin.'

"So I conveys Mrs. Trotter to Cairo and establishes her in a family hotel far enough away from mine and Andy's quarters to be unsuspicious and available, and I tell Andy.

"'Great,' says Andy. 'And now that your conscience is appeased as to the tangibility and proximity of the bait, and leaving mutton aside, suppose we revenoo a noo fish.'

"So, we began to insert our advertisement in newspapers covering the country far and wide. One ad was all we used. We couldn't have used more without hiring so many clerks and marcelled paraphernalia that the sound of the gum chewing would have disturbed the Postmaster-General.

"We placed $2000 in a bank to Mrs. Trotter's credit and gave her the book to show in case anybody might question the honesty and good faith of the agency. I knew Mrs. Trotter was square and reliable and it was safe to leave it in her name.

"With that one ad Andy and me put in 12 hours a day answering letters.

"About 100 a day was what came in. I never knew there was so many large-hearted but indigent men in the country who were willing to acquire a charming widow and assume the burden of investing her money.

"Most of them admitted that they ran principally to whiskers and lost jobs and were misunderstood by the world, but all 'em were sure that they were so chock full of affection and manly qualities that the widow would be making the bargain of her life to get 'em.

"Every applicant got a reply from Peters & Tucker informing him that the widow had been deeply impressed by his straightforward and interesting letter and requesting them to write again; stating more particulars; and enclosing photograph if convenient. Peters & Tucker also informed the applicant that their fee for handing over the second letter to their fair client would be $2, enclosed therewith.

"There you see the simple beauty of the scheme. About 90 per cent of them domestic foreign noblemen raised the price somehow and sent it in. That was all there was to it. Except that me and Andy complained an amount about being put to the trouble of sliding open them envelopes, and taking the money out.

"Some few clients called in person. We sent 'em to Mrs. Trotter and she did the rest; except for three or four who came back to strike us for carfare. After the letter began to get in from the r. f. d. district Andy and me were taking in about $200 a day.

"One afternoon when we were busiest and I was stuffing the twos and ones into cigar boxes and Andy was whistling 'No Wedding Bells for Her' a small, slick man drops in and runs his eye over the walls like he was on the trail of a lost Gainsborough painting or two. As soon as I saw him I felt a glow of pride, because we were running our business on the level.

"'I see you have quite a large mail today,' says the man.

"I reached and got my hat.

"'Come on,' says I. 'We've been expecting you. I'll show you the goods. How was Teddy when you left Washington?'

"I took him down to the Riverview Hotel and had him shake hands with Mrs. Trotter. Then I showed him her bank book with the $2000 to her credit.

"'It seems to be all right,' says the Secret Service.

"'It is,' says I. 'And if you're not a married man I'll leave you to talk a while with the lady. We won't mention the two dollars.'

"'Thanks,' says he. 'If I wasn't, I might. Good day, Mrs. Peters.'

"Toward the end of three months we had taken in something over $5000, and we saw it was time to quit. We had a good many complaints made to us; and Mrs. Trotter seemed to be tired of the job. A good many suitors had been calling to see her, and she didn't seem to like that.

"So we decides to pull out, and I goes down to Mrs. Trotter's hotel to pay her last week's salary and say farewell and get her check for the $2000.

"When I got there I found her crying like a kid that don't want to go to school.

"'Now,' says I, 'what's it all about? Somebody sassed you or you getting homesick?'

"'No, Mr. Peters,' says she. 'I'll tell you. You was always a friend of Zeke's, and I don't mind. But I love a man so hard I'm in love. I just love a man so hard I can't bear not to get him. He's just the ideal I've always had in mind.'

"'Then take him,' says I. 'That is, if it's a mutual case. Does he return the sentiment according to the specifications and painfulness you have described?'

"'He don't,' says she. 'But he's one of the gentlemen that's been coming to see me about the advertisement and he won't marry me unless I give him the $2000. His name is William Wilkinson.' And then she goes off again in the agitations and hysterics of romance.

"'Mrs. Trotter,' says I, 'there's no man more sympathizing with a woman's affections than I am. Besides, you was once the life partner of one of my best friends. If it was left to me I'd say take this $2000 and the man of your choice and be happy.

"'We could afford to do that, because we have cleaned up over $5000 from these suckers that wanted to marry you. But,' says I, 'Andy Tucker is to be consulted.'

"'He is a good man, but keen in business. He is my equal partner financially. I will talk to Andy,' says I, 'and see what can be done.'

"I goes back to the hotel and lays the case before Andy.

"'I was expecting something like this all the time,' says Andy. 'You can't trust a woman to stick by you in any scheme that involves her emotions and preferences.'

"'It's a sad thing,' Andy,' says I, 'to think that we've been the cause of the breaking of a woman's heart.'

"'It is,' says Andy, 'and I tell you what I'm willing to do, Jeff. You've always been a man of a soft and generous heart and disposition. Perhaps I've been too hard and worldly and suspicious. For once I'll meet you half way. Go to Mrs. Trotter and tell her to draw the $2000 from the bank and give it to this man she's infatuated with and be happy.'

"I jumps up and shakes Andy's hand for 5 minutes, and then I goes back to Mrs. Trotter and tells her, and she cries as hard for joy as she did for sorrow.

"Two days afterward me and Andy packed up to go.

"'Wouldn't you like to go down and meet Mrs. Trotter once before we leave?' I asks him. 'She'd like mightily to know you and express her encomiums and gratitude.'

"'Why, I guess not,' says Andy. 'I guess we'd better hurry and catch that train.'

"I was strapping our capital around me in a memory belt like we always carried it, when Andy pulls a roll of large bills out of his pocket and asks me to put 'em with the rest.

"'Wha's this?' says I.

"'It's Mrs. Trotter's two thousand,' says Andy.

"'How do you come to have it?' I asks.

"'She gave it to me,' says Andy. 'I've been calling on her three evenings a week for more than a month.'

"'Then are you William Wilkinson?' says I.

"'I was,' says Andy."

Woman Commends, Man Condemns Present Styles.

By NIXOLA GREELY-SMITH.

A VERY eloquent prosecutor appears today against the young girl summoned before the bar of public opinion that the dress-paint-and-powder problem may be solved.

A woman appears for the defense and by the force and lucidity of her argument proves herself an able advocate. She says:

The narrow skirts are neat and clean; cause women to be careful of their shoes and hosiery. Nothing is more hideous than folds of cloth flopping around shoes, wiping car steps, being stepped on, etc.

What is there indecent about the lines of a girl's shape and why should she cover every inch of it to avoid arousing evil thoughts in pure men.

I expected men to blame mothers. If the child, the boy, the girl, the husband does not go just right always, it is the wife and mother to blame. Most men still feel they are mentally, morally and spiritually fitted to prescribe the morals and conduct of women; more fitted to govern the children, and a woman is just a thoughtless, incompetent being created to perpetuate the race (a prominent business man said that to me yesterday), yet they blame these weaklings if they don't possess mental, moral and spiritual characters strong enough to rear alone sons and daughters with poise and common sense to withstand temptations in which a great majority of fathers indulge.

I think that the clever woman who inquires, "What is there indecent about the lines of a girl's shape?" will find her answer in the aphorism I have quoted. But if she doesn't, let her ponder this profound bit of Shakspearian wisdom:

"There is nothing either good or bad but thinking makes it so."

Now a perfectly nice girl may have the "shape"—horrible word—but it's the loafer in front of the corner saloon or the "moving picture" show that will do the thinking—and he will think very dark and evil thoughts which no well-bred woman or young girl should wish to inspire.

Certainly there is nothing indecent about the lines of a young girl's figure, which in its perfection is perhaps the most beautiful thing in the world. It's not the effect on the man, but the effect on the girl that is to be deprecated.

LET'S forget the men for a while. Nothing in a long time has appeared to me so discouraging to the development of the super-woman as the plea put forth constantly by young girl readers of the Post-Dispatch that "girls dress to please the men" or that "men prefer to take out freakily dressed girls" or that "girls who paint their faces find it easier to obtain husbands."

My dear young women, don't you want to have any standards of your own? Must you always accept "hand-me-down morals" and ethics from the male sex?

The woman who says that she wears vulgar clothes because vulgar men admire them, or that she doesn't see why she should maintain standards of decency if men do not, always reminds me of the old story of the drunken man in the gutter who called upon a friend less intoxicated than he to help him up. The friend—no white ribboner himself—after making two or three half-hearted efforts to get the drunkard on his feet, gave up in despair. "I can't help you up," he said. "I can't help you up, but I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll lie down with you."

There is a great deal in the attitude of the twentieth century young woman which indicates a friendly desire to get down in the gutter with man instead of trying to lift him out of it—that is, assuming that man is a natural born gutsersnipe and woman the bird of paradise she likes to believe.

There is a whole alphabet of good and beautiful things which are not worth sacrificing to win the sort of love that is inspired by a painted face or a shadow gown.

In answer to this letter I find in my mind the following from a man:

Dear Madam—In the case of the United States vs. Bennet, 16 Blatchf., 338, the Supreme Court of the United States, speaking of an indecent publication, says: "It is not a question whether it would corrupt the morals and tend to deprave your minds or the minds of every person; it is a question whether it tends to deprave the mind open to such influences and into whose hands a publication of this character might come. It is within the law if it would suggest impure and libidinous thought in the young and inexperienced."

Now the indecent dress of New York females, including young girls, not only suggests impure thought in the young and inexperienced; the suggestion operates even more in the experienced and susceptible. In this country—and particularly in this city—there has never been such a condition of artificial and suggestive adornment on the part of women as now exists, and it is safe to say that there have never before been so many serious affected men.

I DO not know which letter will make the stronger appeal to the Post-Dispatch readers, who are the jury. But there is one sentence in the man's letter which seems to me to strip the situation of all sentimental drapery and reduce it to the bare bones of logic—and logic has even barer bones than some of those revealed by girls' attire. This is the sentence which refers to the indifference of mothers to the character of their daughters' clothes:

"It doesn't make any difference how they regard its effect or what they think its effect ought to be, the fact remains that its effect upon men is what it is, and not what they think it ought to be."

HEART BREAKERS OF HISTORY

Lady Hamilton

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

"LADY HAMILTON is without exception the coarsest, most ill-mannered, disagreeable person I ever have met!"

So wrote a court chronicler in the early days of the eighteenth century; and to prove his assertion he added many lurid details. Here is a brief description of the woman: She was tall, lithe, infinitely graceful; with an oval face, big deep-blue eyes, small, shapely hands, and with shimmering golden-chestnut hair that fell to her feet. Those same feet, by the way, were perhaps the ugliest and biggest in Europe. They were the only flaw in her looks.

In 1765, in an English village hut, Amy Lyon was born. Her mother was a servant. Her father was a blacksmith. The child grew up illiterate. In fact, she never, in all her life, learned to spell or speak correctly. At the age of 12 she became a nursemaid. At 13 she was a chambermaid in the household of a lady of rank from whom she picked up some smattering of good manners. Then, after a term as shopgirl in a little London dry goods store, she became a waitress in a cheap tavern frequented by clever, down-at-heel writers. While she was there a naval officer named Payne fell in love with her. But he was cut out by Sir Henry Featherstonhaugh, who in turn was supplanted by Dr. Graham, a notorious quack.

Amy Lyon (who had by this time changed her name to Emma Harte) posed in a series of living pictures for Graham as Hygeia, the goddess of health. Her face and perfect figure during these poses attracted Charles Greville, a "poor relation" of a rich old family. Greville fell moderately in love with her and she fell utterly and blindly in love with him. It was the first and great love of her life. Greville introduced the great painter, Romney, to her. Romney was a willing victim, and immortalized her loveliness in a number of portraits.

Greville's uncle, old Sir William Hamilton, British Ambassador to Naples, heard of the affair and came to England to remonstrate with his nephew. He fell in love with Emma at sight. The upshot of the matter was that Greville, for a large sum of money, gave up all claim to Emma, and Sir William married her.

Sick with grief at Greville's desertion, Emma sullenly agreed to be Sir William's wife. And henceforth, since love was gone, she lived for power. She went to the Neapolitan court with her husband, where she became the Queen's most intimate friend, and soon began to sway international politics to suit her own whim.

At Naples she met Horatio Nelson, who was then an obscure naval officer. It is not on record that he then interested her or she him. But when, a few years later, Nelson came back to Naples a naval hero and the idol of the court, Lady Hamilton was seized with a form of hero-worship for him. Such adoration as hers was too ardent for a man of Nelson's sort to resist. He lost his heart—and head—to her. For a time she was the most sought-after woman in Europe. Even the Prince of Wales (afterward George VI) was smitten by her charms, and devoted the rest of his life to her service. Nelson's slavish love for Lady Hamilton and the length to which it drove him are the only blots on the man's wonderful career. When he was struck down in battle at the moment of victory, his last words were of her.

After Nelson's death the world at large turned its back on Lady Hamilton. She had been a peerless beauty; but, thanks to her love for gorging enormous quantities of food, she was growing fat and unwieldy. She had had a comfortable fortune. But her passion for gambling soon left her penniless. The former heartbreaker was now merely a bloated, middle-aged impoverished glutton. She was cast into prison for debt, and remained there a year. Then she got free and fled to France to dodge her creditors. Poor, neglected, half-forgotten, she died in 1815 at a Calais lodging house that was almost as squalid as the hovel in which she had been born.

Like nearly all of history's ignoble heartbreakers, Lady Hamilton had enjoyed her hour of dazzling, unworthy triumph, and at last had been bitterly punished. She who had ruled courts died in misery, the poverty of her last days made more bitter by the fact she could no longer afford to eat a whole turkey at one meal.

THE POCKET ENCYCLOPEDIA

Information gathered for inquisitive readers.

WHY does a fresh egg feel colder to the tongue at the thick end than does a stale egg? The thick end of a fresh egg contains more white and less air than does that of a stale egg. The white of an egg is a better "conductor" than is air. So the heat of the tongue is drawn off more rapidly and the egg will feel colder to the tongue.

How high above the earth are the clouds? On a very clear day the clouds are often four or five miles above the earth. But their average height from the ground is from one to two miles.

Why is it dangerous to sit near an open fire in a thunderstorm? Because, in addition to the peril of the draft, the heated air and soot are strong conductors of lightning.

Why does rain usually follow a hot spell? In hot weather the moisture of the earth is continuously drawn up into the air. When the air can no longer hold it moisture comes down again in the form of rain.

Why does green wood, when burning, snap less than dry wood? Its pores are full of sap and can thus hold very little air. Snapping is caused by the effort of the imprisoned air to escape from the burning wood.

How does camphor keeps moths away? Camphor gives off an odorous gas that is injurious both to moths and to microbes.

Why is it painful to the hair to be pulled and not painful to be cut? Pain is the result of an injured nerve. The hair has no nerves, so cutting does not hurt it. But its roots are surrounded by nerves, which are irritated when the hair is pulled.

"MR. PETERS, I AM IN LOVE"

ADVICE ON Love and Courtesy

By BETTY VINCENT.

A Question of Veracity.

R. E. writes: "A young man who has told me he loved me asked me to go to an entertainment with him. Later I met two friends and they said he had asked them first, but they declined. He denies this. What shall I do?"

You must decide which to believe, your friends or the young man, and then act accordingly.

Hope On.

B. H. writes: "I have been paying attention to a girl for three months, and though I love her she shows no love for me. Do you think that I should lose any more time with her?"

I think you would be very foolish to give up hope after so brief a courtship.

How to Propose.

H. C. writes: "I am in love with a young lady. I have not yet told her of my love, and would like your advice as to how I should go about it."

The clearest and simplest way of making any proposal is the best.

Ladies Do Not.

E. J. writes: "Is it proper for a young lady to order beer while in a young man's company?"

The young man should do the ordering, if it is to be done.

Choose for Yourself.

H. L. writes: "I paid attention to a certain young girl for a year, but my parents thought another girl more suitable for me. What do you advise me to do?"

If you are of age choose for yourself.

Depth of Affection.

C. O. writes: "I am in love with a girl, but she is very changeable. Shall I try to win her affections?"

That must depend upon how deeply your own are involved.

JOHNSON'S PURSE SHY $10,000 OF ORIGINAL OFFER

Champion Agrees to Give Flynn $6000 After Receipts Are Counted.

PROMOTERS LOST MONEY

Curley's Official Statement Says Only $28,000 Was Taken in at the Gate.

EAST LAS VEGAS, N. M., July 6.—Jack Johnson did not receive $31,000 for his victory over Jim Flynn, the Fighting Fireman, in the late lamented championship battle here July 4. Instead the big negro was paid $21,000, and he left here Thursday evening perfectly satisfied with his position in life.

The reason for the cut in Johnson's end of the purse is that some provision had to be made for Flynn. And, according to the official statement of receipts and disbursements as issued by Promoter Jack Curley, Flynn was paid $7,000 for his 11 weeks' training and the sound beating he received in the ring. He also was presented with an automobile which cost when bought, one year ago, $6000.

Flynn Lost Grouch.

With this financial balm to heal his wounds, Flynn left for his home in Pueblo in pretty good spirits. He had lost his grouch over the turn of affairs and was willing to accept the outcome as the inevitable.

Curley's statement as presented to the Las Vegas business men, indicated that the gate receipts totaled $28,000. This was probably $100,000 shy of what Curley had dreamed of when he arranged the lop-sided match. Johnson, it is understood, had agreed to cut his purse in the event that the turn-out was small, as it was.

Las Vegas Loses $10,000.

When the fight was brought to Las Vegas, it was agreed between those who subscribed the bonus of $10,000 and Jack Curley that if the receipts of yesterday's fight totaled $65,000, the $10,000 subscribed would be returned. As the receipts fell far below the figure named the amount subscribed is lost to the citizens of Las Vegas.

However, as a one-third interest in the moving pictures retained by those who subscribed the $10,000, it is believed part of this investment may be recovered.

EIGHT CREWS ENTER FORSTER CUP RACE

The first race for the new Frank Forster Cup will be staged on the Mississippi River Sunday afternoon, when eight barge crews will line up for a two-mile downstream pull. The contest will start at the foot of Tamm avenue, with the finish opposite the Central Rowing Club house at the foot of Palm street.

This is the first time the Forster Cup has been competed for. It is a new trophy donated to take the place of the Stifel Cup, permanent possession of this trophy having been won by the Central crew last season.

The St. Louis Rowing Club first crew, which includes six of the eight men who won the Lemp Plate race on the river last Thursday, is favored to win tomorrow's contest. However, there are others, notably the Centrals, the 1911 winners, Western and Mound Citys, who are expected to furnish good competition. The entries follow: St. Louis, Mound City and Centrals, each two crews and one crew each from the Western and North End clubs.

Manufacturers' League Games.

The Manufacturers' League schedule for Saturday afternoon includes the following games: At Kuiage's Park, Woodward & Tiernan's vs. Merchants-Laclede; at Athletic Park, Mercantile Trust vs. Mechanics-American; at Koubler's, Third Nationals vs. Keen Kutters. All games start at 3:30.

Cyclists to Hold Picnic.

The annual picnic of the St. Louis Cycling Club will be held Sunday at Cromwell's Grove. Athletic events will feature the outing.

WRAY'S COLUMN

OR GET A "WHITE HOPE."

MAY we enter the suggestion that the Cardinals draw the color line on Lavender?

• • •

TRY ROBISON FIELD.

YOU don't have to seek the records of the Democratic convention to find out the fate of Harmon. Just follow the trail of the Cubs' steam roller.

• • •

MILLER HUGGINS, despite threats of trade, is not faltering in his work. In fact the Rabbit's record has improved more than a hare's breadth.

• • •

INCREASED DEMAND.

NO let up to this high cost of living. The price of chicken is sure to advance since Johnson has broken training.

• • •

HIDING THE SHELLS.

JACK CURLEY says he lost on the Las Vegas fight, but isn't sure whether it was $15,000 or $25,000. Mislaying a trifle like $10,000 never bothers fight promoters.

• • •

WORSE THAN A FUNERAL.

IF Jack Curley had read up a bit and stumbled across the proposition that whatever you sow you are sure to reap, he would hardly have planted that corpse of a fight and expected to reap anything but a dead one.

Of course anyone is privileged to try to overthrow Goliaths with Davids; but he can't expect to pack the house with the show, at world's championship rates.

There never was a reason for matching Flynn and Johnson. The sole chance of this match to bring out an attendance depended on clever promoting. How clever the affair was handled may be judged by the fact that they turned Tommy Ryan loose from the Flynn camp with a system full of spleen and a noodle full of dope against the "white hope." Ryan's subsequent observations on Flynn were enough to keep the crowd at home.

Better five "home talent" shows, at five bucks per throw, says Monsieur Sport, than one bunk world's championship at $25 a crack.

Which listens well.

• • •

GOING SOME.

NOW then: If it rains in Cleveland today and Washington beats the Highlanders, the Browns may rise out of last place.

• • •

"LUCK and skill are the important factors in hitting," a contemporary observes. Especially, Bo, if Bill Bailey and not Ed Walsh is the opposing pitcher.

WITNESS ADOLPH'S SCARS.

IT appears that although Tom McCarey refused to give Adolph Wolgast the promised belt, Joe Rivers was kind enough to hand the champion a few.

• • •

Connie Mack's steam roller is rough-riding, these days. That Boston road is so rocky.

• • •

DO IT NOW, ARTHA'.

JACK JOHNSON is showing no eagerness, to snatch the offers of Promoter McIntosh of Australia in the matter of matching the colored champion with Langford or McVey. Johnson declares he expects to take a rest before he considers another fight. This is in contradiction of his announcement, during the training period at Las Vegas, that he would go ahead and trim all his opponents while he was in condition.

Jack should reconsider his present rest plan and get busy. If he slips back into the primrose way for another two years he will probably slump enough to cost him his title, when he emerges again. These Langfords, McVeys and Jeanettes are no Flynns.

• • •

NOT ALL IN YET.

COME on, boys, let's start a petition to trade Huggins. He's only batting .321 and stolen 15 bases, while playing fewer games than his team-mates. What do we want with Huggins when we have Lee Magee, batting average .236, today?

• • •

THE CLUB, NOT MARQUARD.

WHAT'S the secret of the Giants' success? Marquard sure. Not to mention the following facts, which make Marquard himself a winner:

PLAYER.	R.	H.	SB.	Av.

Lavender Didn't Fade but Cards Withered Under a Scorching Sun

Jimmy Lavender, who is suffering from an epidemic of good pitching, had the Cardinals faded at every turn Friday and another game was chucked into the discard by the wrecked wreckers, 4—0. Bob Harmon took the small end of the count in the duel with Lavender.

It was by all odds the most listless and uninteresting bout staged at the Britton pasture this season. The heat probably affected both clubs, but the Cards seemed to suffer more than their adversaries, as the ultimate count would indicate.

The Cards nicked five hits, three of them rank scratches. The Cubs gleaned seven, two triples and one double. The Bruins made all their base knocks count, while the Cards couldn't mix in their blows at the right time.

Three rattling double plays spoiled what chances the locals had to score. In the first inning Huggins opened with a single, but was trapped in a double-killing on Magee's roller to Tinker. In the sixth, Bresnahan began with a single, but Harmon slapped into a double play. Magee opened the fourth with a safe rap, but died stealing as Wallie Smith sawed the ozone.

Singles by Lavender, Tinker and Zimmerman netted two runs in the third, Scheckard's double, Schulte's triple and Tinker's sacrifice fly produced two more in the fifth. In the second and sixth rounds, the Cubs had the bases filled, but Harmon squirmed out without a run being scored. He fanned Sheckard in the sixth to accomplish said feat.

Boss Bresnahan pulled a good play in the second ninning that gave the fans their only chance to enthuse. Zim opened with a walk and stopped at second on Goode's single. Then Saier bunted, and Zim was nailed at third, Harmon to Smith. That left men on first and second, with one out. Evers, the batter, gave the sign for the hit-and-run, and both the baserunners took liberal leads. Bresnahan divined the attack, called for a pitchout and shot the ball to Magee, who touched Saier off first. It was lovely billiards!

Harmon had two strikes and no balls on Evers in the sixth inning when he served up a floater. "Brains" was laying for it and wopped a three-bagger over Oakes' dome.

Oakes made a puerile attempt to catch Schulte's liner in the fifth. It should have been a single, but Reb missed connection and it went for a triple.

The Cards have dropped five games in a row. They now are two and one-half games behind Brooklyn and only five and one-half bouts ahead of Boston.

Wilbur Goode got his first hit of the season Friday when he nicked a single in the second round.

Joe Tinker is managing the Cubs in Chance's absence. Furthermore, Joe is bossing the team. He called Heine Zim to task twice Friday, and Heine Zim listened to what Joe had to say.

Lurid Lew Richie probably will oppose Big Bill Steele in Saturday's matinee.

BROWNIES HOPEFUL OF QUITTING LAST PLACE

CLEVELAND, O., July 6.—Following a day's rest and with two games scheduled today and as many tomorrow with the Naps, the Browns are hopeful of turning over last place in the American League race to the New York Yankees. Although idle yesterday, the Browns pulled up slightly in the race, now being tied with the New Yorkers for seventh place.

In today's game it is probable that Jack Powell and Elmer Brown will heave against Kahler and Baskette. After tomorrow's game the Browns make a quick jump to Boston to commence their Eastern invasion Monday.

BEACHY PLANS TO FLY OVER LAKE MICHIGAN

CHICAGO, July 6.—Lincoln Beachy, whose feats in a biplane have won international praise, said that he had come to Chicago to select a site on Lake Michigan from which to make experimental flights in a 75-horsepower hydroplane. He said that upon finding a location, his first effort probably would be a flight across Lake Michigan and return in an effort to break the world's over-water record.

MIKE CALLS ON ROGER, BUT FAILS TO END DEADLOCK

Striking Third Sacker Refuses to Pay Fine and Suspension Stands.

By W. J. O'CONNOR.

No decision has been reached in the Mowrey-Bresnahan deadlock, although the striking third sacker called on the Cardinal manager Friday afternon for a short conference. The situation remains unchanged, Mowrey declining to pay the $25 fine imposed by Roger, while Bresnahan in turn refuses to remit the fine—even upon payment of costs.

In the meantime the Cardinals are losing games that they should be winning. The pitching has been good, Sallee, Willis and Harmon uncorking great feats in rapid succession, but the club's defense has been weakened, while the attack is jokish. With neither Koney nor Mowrey in the lineup, the hitting strength is about 30 per cent shy of what it should be, and the managerless Cubs are feasting on the home talent.

KONEY RECOVERING.

Koney may return Saturday, although his physician has ordered him to stay out of the sun. Ed's left optic still is inflamed, and the Big Train is not in shape to work. However, Koney's hitting is sorely needed if the Cards are to remain out of last place, a position which they now are headed for under full steam.

One lamentable feature of the present sad crisis in the Cardinal club is the fact that no new ballplayers are coming in for trial. Had Scouts Kinsella and Armour arranged for the immediate delivery of some of the talent purchased, the youngster could get a thorough trial right off the reel. Bresnahan is sorely in need of fly-chasers, likewise some pitchers, and with the club in its present weakened condition, Roger could try out the youngsters to advantage, but, sad to relate, the youngsters are not at hand.

One of the bright spots in the gloom around Robison Field these days is Lee Magee. This youngster seems to adapt himself to any or all positions. He is doing for the Cardinals now what Artie Hofman, in his heyday did for the Cubs. Lee can play any position on the team but pitch and catch, and he's game enough to try out at either of these positions if the occasion demands.

Magee is making plays these days that many ballplayers would overlook. He has a wonderful whip, and he stands ready to try it out on the slightest provocation. In Friday's frolic, for instance, Lavender opened the third inning with a single. Then Sheckard sacrificed, Harmon to Magee. Just as soon as the out at first had been registered, Magee cut loose a wicked throw to Hauser at second in an effort to retire Lavender, who had overrun the bag a step. Hauser wasn't looking for the throw, although he was covering the bag, and Pewee was almost floored by Lee's shooting.

The same thing came up Thursday. In the fourth frame of the first game, Zimmerman was on third when Saier lined to Magee. The latter shot the ball with the speed of a rifle to Smith. The throw was true, and Zimmerman was doubled off third by an eyelash. There are a lot of first-sackers who don't make such throws because they fear their aim isn't true. At least, they won't make hurry-up shots like Magee. Flash is playing the game to win, though his hitting is still feeble.

Jack Johnson having punched the final hole in Jack Curley's meal ticket, said meal ticket will probably go the way of all such expired documents.

There is usually something funny crops out in every big fight. The big scream in connection with the Las Vegas fiasco was Flynn's post-battle statement, to wit: "My only regret is that Johnson refused to stand up and fight clean." Can you beat it?

Mike Murphy Is Real Leader of American Team

Joe Forshaw Writes That He Is Improving Under Direction of Famous Trainer.

The short life of the average modern athlete is well demonstrated from the fact that the present American team at Stockholm, which will be seen in action there today, includes but two members of the team that went to Athens in 1906 for that Olympiad. They are Joe Forshaw, the St. Louis Marathon runner, and George Bonhag, the New York athlete.

This information is included in a letter from Joe Forshaw to Dr. W. A. Dillen, the former well-known St. Louis University football and athletic star, and a personal friend of Forshaw.

Parts of Forshaw's letter follow: "Our private yacht has arrived at Antwerp, where we spend two days, and then proceed to Stockholm. This is pretty soft for me when I think of it—three Olympic trips, the only Marathon man that ever made them. As a matter of fact, there is only one other athlete here from 1906, and he is George Bonhag.

Mike Murphy Is Boss.

"Martin Delaney and his wife are aboard. Lawson Robertson, trainer of the Irish-American Club, is also here. But you can bet your last dollar Mike Murphy is boss supreme, and rightly he should be. He is the dean of them all. It gives me confidence the way I improve under his eye. I sit next to him at table, so guess I'll be watched close enough there, at least.

"You can't put anything over on Mike without his knowing it. I have run every day since we left New York and expect to do so every day within three days of the race. When we get on land we will have some 18 to 25 mile jaunts.

"Believe me, this is going to be the greatest marathon ever stage. I'd give ten years of my life to cop it, so don't be surprised if you read of another Dorando stunt. There are more college men on the team than ever before. The team is the finest personally and athletically ever sent over.

All Kinds of Champions.

"We have a world's champion in nearly every event. I think our weight men, Ralph Rose, Matt McGrath, Simon Gilles and Meex, are as big as any ten men in Sweden. When they see them they'll think it's the fat-boy section of a circus. Meex is only 19 years old and must weigh 300 pounds, if an ounce. His back looks like the side of a house."

Diamond Glints

Ollie O'Mara, a St. Louis boy, who has been playing in sensational style at short for the Hannibal (Central Association) team, has been purchased by the Detroit Tigers. He'll report in the fall.

By taking a 16-inning game from the Yankees, the National of Griff moved up to second place, while the Yanks are now tied for the cellar championship with the Browns. Fisher and Warhop worked for the Kilties, while Johnson went to the rescue of young Engel.

The Giants are on a winning streak again. After being knocked from the hill the day before, Matty came back and trimmed the Dodgers with Barger and Kent up, 6—1.

Harry Lord was overcome by heat in the game with the Tigers and was replaced by Rollie Zeider, whose suspension was lifted by Manager Callahan. Ed Walsh had the better of Ralph Works, 7—3.

Rixey, the University of Virginia pitcher, made his debut with the Quakers and handed out a row of nine blanks to the Braves. The Quakers made 10 runs for Rixey.

The Athletics and Red Sox divided a twin bill.

Pitcher Perdue, who recently tore up his uniform and quit the Braves, has made up with Manager Kling and has been restored to good standing.

George Edward Waddell, the eccentric southpaw, is suffering from acute indigestion and will be lost to the Minneapolis team for quite awhile. The Rube hasn't been going very well to date.

Alton Team in Lead.

Because Belleville won a protested game against the Mount Olive team, the latter outfit has dropped to second place in the Trolley League standing, now being tied with the Ben Millers, while the Alton team is in the lead. Belleville protested because the Mount Olive team played an unsigned player.

Rowing Officials to Meet.

A meeting of members of the Southwestern Amateur Rowing Association will be held at the St. James Hotel Saturday evening. A full attendance is requested.

PERSONAL—Jim: It's been rear. I'll die without you. Get the diamond of Loftis Bros.

Barney Filippo, 19 years old, living at Yager Park on the East Side, swam the Mississippi River in 16 minutes and won a $20 wager.

Harry Brewer Is Matched to Box Canadian Champ

Hilliard Lang and Missouri Welterweight Will Fight July 15.

Harry Brewer, who won and lost in two battles with welterweight titleclaimant Ray Bronson, and whose good work before the St. Louis Athletic Club was appreciated by local followers of the game, has been matched with Hilliard Lang, to box 15 rounds in Winnipeg, Canada, July 15. Brewer, who was in St. Louis Saturday, wired his acceptance of the terms. Lang is referred to in the telegram as the "welterweight champion of Canada."

Brewer is on his way home from Indianapolis, where he fought his recent battle with Bronson. Bronson won after a hard contest.

"Bronson beat me all right," Brewer admitted. He was clererer and outpointed me. We are to be rematched soon. The last affair did not pay. It was held in the afternoon at the baseball park and the weather was threatening.

"Under favorable conditions we will draw better next time. I saw Packey McFarland just before his bout with Randall. He did not train a lick for the St. Louis lad. I think he figured he had a cinch, as he surely must have had. Randall is too light a hitter for his cleverness to count much."

Yale Club Road Run Today.

The ten-mile road race, under the auspices of the Yale Club, 1024 Franklin avenue, will be held Saturday afternoon, starting at 2:30 from the club headquarters. The finish will be at Normandy Grove.

A series of races for swimmers from Central, Yeatman, McKinley and Soldan high schools will be staged at the Crystal Natatorium. Medals will be awarded to the winners.

NORMANDIE CLUB LOSES SERVICES OF DAVE PATRICK

Professional Golfer Resigns Local Berth to Move to Duluth, Minn.

Dave Patrick, the well-known professional golfer, has resigned his post at the Normandie Club to accept a position in Duluth, Minn., for the summer. Patrick left Friday evening for his new berth and probably will not return to Normandie next fall.

A meeting of the Normandie Board of Governors will be held next week to fill the vacancy caused by Patrick's withdrawal. E. Miller, who has been Patrick's assistant for a year, probably will be appointed. Miller has made many friends among the members and he will likely poll enough votes to get the job.

• • •

Normandie members had a big day Thursday, when they celebrated with morning and afternoon tournaments. The feature event of the day was the tombstone tournament held in the afternoon. This was won by Louis Smutz. Mr. Smutz had a handicap of 17 strokes.

Cyrus More and Dr. G. F. Paine, who were playing from scratch, got as far as No. 17, while O. Immenhausen, with the aid of a six-stroke allowance, wound up at 18.

Club Tourney Today.

Saturday afternoon the qualifying round of the annual Normandie Club championship will be played, and every active golfer in the club has entered. The club handicaps will prevail and interesting matches are expected.

The final event of the first half of an elaborate season's program will be finished at Glen Echo Saturday afternoon, when a two-ball mixed foursome for the Hamilton Cooke cup is played. Fourteen pairs had entered Saturday morning, although the entry list will be held open until starting time in the afternoon.

Arrangements will be made for the rest of the season's program. Cups donated by Taylor D. Kelley, S. A. Walker, S. J. Harbaugh, J. W. Fristoe, H. S. Wheeler, B. F. Edwards, Geo. T. Priest, D. R. Hussey, J. W. Bemis and T. W. Carter Jr. will be played for.

Public Links Open Today.

Apropos of the opening of the public links in St. Louis, an event of Saturday which should mark a new era in local golfing, it is pertinent to remark that the public links of Chicago have more players than all the 27 private courses combined. There are 20 golf courses in Chicago, including the three 18-hole public links, and for that reason the Windy City must be recognized as the golf center of America. Hist to what J. G. Davis, golf expert for the Chicago Tribune, wrote in advance of the July 4 golf celebrations in the big city by the lake:

"Announcement by a local secretary that the 'knights of the brassie' will storm the hazards today covers the situation on over thirty of the local courses. Allowing for 2000 players on the two courses at Jackson Park, for 1000 at Garfield Park, and an average of 200 for each of the private courses, there will be over 10,000 knights battling against bogey par, and other things that golfing knights are supposed to 'tilt at.'"

A good match was played Friday in the annual Triple A championships. Carl Piepho, unner-up to W. Arthur Stickney in the recent city tournament, defeated W. R. Orthwein, 2 up and 1, in the third round. Piepho now is virtually assured of the club title.

POST-DISPATCH'S DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

STOCK TRADING SHOWS MIXED PRICE RANGE

Most Issues Score Small Gains—London List Quiet and Irregular.

BANK RETURN IS POOR

Heavy Loss in Cash Wipes Out Reserves of New York Institutions.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The day's stock market was dull and uninteresting. The tone, however, was fairly firm throughout the day, and there was no evidence of pressure to sell.

"Soon after the opening, which was at yesterday's level, there was a gradual advance in prices of from ½ to a full point. This helped Union Pacific, United States Steel, Reading and a few of the other active shares. But the transactions were on the whole unimportant, and the movement was utterly lacking in enthusiasm.

"On the other side the markets were governed by the extraordinary conditions which have forced the price of British consols, French rentes and German Government bonds to new low records this week.

"There was little initiative to the trading at London, where discount rates were reported to be hardening. During the last half hour of trading here the stock market was at a standstill, with prices ruling for the most part, however, fairly firm.

"The only news development of much importance was the showing of the country's bank clearings for the month of June. This showed a loss of 1 per cent, compared with a year ago, but for the territory outside of New York City there was a gain of 2 per cent.

"For the six completed months, however, the whole country showed nearly 8 per cent increase, as compared with the first half of 1911. In the territory outside New York City the increase was 8½ per cent.

"One encouraging sign was the showing of bond sales on the Stock Exchange, which indicated an average gain of $1,000,000 a day over last year. This reflected definite broadening of the July investment demand."

Bank Return Poor.

"The New York banks, in their weekly statement today, made a highly sensational showing. For the first time since the trust companies entered the clearing house, the affiliated institutions, on the basis of the actual return, reported a deficit in reserves of $5,413,000.

"This was due to the cash loss of $24,151,000, coming in a week when the loan account was expanded in the sum of $11,317,000. Taking the figures for 'banks alone,' the changes were even more sensational.

"The cash loss was three-fold greater than that given in yesterday's preliminary estimate, and stood at $26,976,000. Such a discrepancy as that between the known movement of money and the showing of the official weekly return, has not been reported in more than a year. It can be explained only as reflecting the unusual movement of money in a week when the July dividend payments caused some altogether extraordinary withdrawals of cash.

"The net result of this huge cash loss, in connection with a $4,170,000 loan increase, was to wipe out the surplus entirely and leave the banks with an actual deficit of $7,775,750.

"In the average return the deficit stood at $213,000. This was the second time this year that a deficit has been reported, the banks alone showing a shortage of $211,250 in the week ending March 30 last.

"At that time, however, the average return showed a small surplus. Today's deficit, therefore, for the banks alone was the largest reported since the panic period of 1907. The nearest parallel was the $6,146,000 deficit reported on Dec. 2 last. This sensational showing brings the money market problem again to the front, and explains in a way why certain banking interests attempted to effect large sales of finance bills in London this week."

DETAILED REPORTS OF DAY'S WALL STREET TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, July 6.—Prices showed a heavy tone at the opening, with substantial fractional losses in Reading, Lehigh Valley, Canadian Pacific and Brooklyn Transit. There were heavy dealings in steel, with prices unchanged.

Initial losses were recovered in the course of the first hour. Southern Railway issues with a one-point gain for the preferred, Tennessee Copper and Interborough-Metropolitan preferred led the advances.

The market closed firm.

Increased strength was shown in the last hour, the few features including Northern Pacific, Great Northern Ore certificates, People's Gas and some less active issues.

Bank Reserves Show a Big Loss for the Week.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The statement of Clearing House banks for the week (five days) shows that the banks hold $1,328,500 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $19,746,250 in the proportionate cash reserve as compared with last week.

SHEEP—The week closes with the best lambs selling at $7.35@7.90, medium offerings, $6.50@7.25; mutton sheep, $4@4.25; stockers, $2.25@3.50, and bucks, $3. The decline the fore part of the week on lambs has now been fully regained.

HORSES AND MULES—The horse market continued about on a par with the earlier part of the week. All classes found the going rather slow today, the market presenting the usual Saturday's dullness. Fresh receipts included about 25 head. Army horses continued in demand and have found a good strong sale the entire week. Mule receipts today aggregated about 25 head, most of which had to be held over until next week's market. The trade continued on a slow and draggy basis, with all classes suffering with the exception of miners. These found a very ready sale, not quite as good as the week previous, but most of them sold at very satisfactory prices.

Wheat continued its downward plunge Saturday, all options reflecting heavy selling, scoring wide losses and touching new low levels on the present decline. In the local market and in Chicago the September option got below the dollar mark for the first time in months. About the only demand in the market came from the successful shorts.

It was strictly a weather market, with ideal growing conditions prevailing in all directions.

All crop reports were bearish, and the Southwest predicted heavy shipments of new wheat for the Chicago manipulators to handle on their July contracts.

Some traders predicted a panicky break in the Chicago July option before it goes out, as it sold at $1.04½ on the break of 10 days ago, and has been held above that level by manipulation ever since, while the December and September options have made new low records, 2c to 3c below their level at that time.

The official Liverpool cable said: "The improved demand and unfavorable reports from Italy for cargoes more firmly held, caused the market here to open steady in the face of break in America yesterday, and prices were ⅛d lower. Following the opening there was speculative selling and week-end realizing induced by the brilliant weather in Europe and expectations of large world's shipments, and prices declined ¼d to ½d, with the undertone weak. Spot markets were dull, and coarse grains weak, and these, together with more favorable reports from Russia, assisted the decline.

"Corn opened ¼d to ⅜d lower and later declined ½d to ¾d, with July leading. The decline in America and the weaker Buenos Ayres, with large Plate offers and free Danubian offers, led to general realizing. World's shipments are expected to be large. The weather in Roumania is wet, and harvesting is in progress.

"In South Italy the wheat yield is poor and prices are very high. There is a good demand for foreign wheat. The weather in Argentine is favorable for the new crop.

"Buenos Ayres—Wheat closed easy and ½d net decline, in sympathy with lower American markets, weakness in foreign bids and the favorable crop weather."

R. W. McKinnon wired Logan & Bryan from Topeka, Kan.: "Heavy rain along Santa Fe, Dodge City clear through. Corn magnificent, clean and good color. Hutchinson reports wheat in Reno County yielding 25 bushels to acre, and results west along Santa Fe, where failure was talked, were surprisingly good. Pastures, from foothills through, are excellent."

Colorado!

Only the Skies are Blue In Colorado

Lock your desk, leave your grouches behind and spend a few weeks with your old, hopeful, eager, virile self. This year of work has worn you out—you're dulled from the strain of dreaming and scheming—of plugging away at a fixed idea. It costs more to stay at home than to stay in Colorado. The round trip fares are very low. You'll come back a year younger, renewed, refreshed, competent.

Any way of going to Colorado is a good way, because it gets you to Colorado. But the best road is the Rock Island, and the best train is

The Colorado Flyer

—every morning from St. Louis to Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo—

A train of perfect comfort which gratifies every wish. Luxurious electric-lighted Pullmans, dining and library-observation cars by the picturesque line to Kansas City and the short route to the Rockies. Every mile of the journey is one of real enjoyment.

The Rocky Mountain Limited—every morning from Chicago—and other fast daily trains from St. Louis, Chicago, Omaha, Kansas City, St. Joseph and Memphis—for Colorado, Yellowstone Park and the Pacific Coast. Our booklets "Under The Turquoise Sky" and "Little Journeys in Colorado" are free for the asking.

MOTHER OF 10 MAKES LONG SWIM IN HUDSON

Though 65, She Distances Her 18-Year-Old Daughter in the Water.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Mrs. Elizabeth Berto of Edgewater, N. J., 65 years old and mother of 10 children, swam along and across the Hudson yesterday from Edgewater to the foot of 152d street. She was accompanied by her 18-year-old daughter, Kitty.

As they neared the bathing club the mother was 100 yards in advance of her daughter. When they reached the clubhouse 50 young men swam out to welcome them and attempted to carry them from the water. Mrs. Berto would have none of it, and insisted she was going to swim back.

She was finally dissuaded and took a seat in a motor boat, while her daughter made the return trip in the water.

$100,000 POLICEMAN TO BE HEAD OF BANK

Gathers Fortune in 23 Years on Force by Investing Savings in Real Estate.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Lieut. John Dawney today resigned from the police force to become a banker. During his 23 years service in the department he has accumulated a fortune of more than $100,000 by investments in real estate. He is to become head of the Dauphin Park Bank after Aug. 1, when his duties end as a policeman.

Dawney has earned about $29,000 from the city and by buying lots and building cottages on them he has been unusually successful. He is 45 years old and formerly was a school teacher. He will receive a pension of $75 a month from the city.

85 PROFESSORS IN CO-OPERATIVE STORE

University of Chicago Executives and Others Try to Cut High Food Prices.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Chicago's first co-operative grocery, in which 250 heads of families, including 85 professors and executives of the University of Chicago, are stockholders, has opened its doors.

All of those interested are residents of Woodlawn, where the store is situated, and they have agreed to support it by buying their foodstuffs there.

If the store is a success, the promoters expect to receive 6 per cent a year on their investment. At the end of every quarter the net earnings will be figured and paid back to the customers in proportion to the amount of their purchases.

The progressive candidate for business honors

Whatever may be their divergent political views, the advertisers of St. Louis have unanimously agreed that the progressive candidate for business honors is the POST-DISPATCH.

Here is the verdict of the convention of advertisers of this country that have been in session daily for the past six months of this year ending July 1st, as expressed in the columns of legitimate advertising of the five daily newspapers of St. Lous for this period:

6 months from January 1st to July 1, 1912

Post-Dispatch	20,014 columns
Globe-Democrat	11,796 columns
Republic	7,639 columns
Times	7,601 columns
Star	3,069 columns

It will be observed from the above that the POST-DISPATCH carried two-thirds of the number of columns of paid advertising carried by all of its competitors, the Globe-Democrat, Republic, Times and Star added together.

It will also be observed that it beat its two nearest competitors, the Globe-Democrat and Republic added together, 579 columns.

That it carried nearly double the number of columns carried by the Times and Star, the two other evening papers, combined.

No one paper in St. Louis is near enough in the volume of legitimate business carried, to make a reasonable comparative showing, so we must add two or three of them together.

That "worth-while gilt edged circulation" that spreads out like a canopy over St. Louis and its suburbs, where people are enjoying good incomes, is of course responsible for this overwhelming preference for the POST-DISPATCH over all its competitors.

The POST-DISPATCH is in a class by itself.

It is the one paper in every home.
The only paper in many homes.

St. Louis' ONE BIG newspaper.
Average circulation for the first six months of 1912

Daily only	169,514
Sunday only	299,909

Only 91 papers short of 300,000
First in Everything.

6-FOOTER DONS APRON, HIS WIFE EARNS LIVING

Minds the Baby and Washes Dishes Because Woman Has the Greater Earning Capacity.

CHICAGO, July 6.—When Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Danielson of Osgood street were confronted with the problem of who should be the family bread winner, they decided that, as the wife had the greater earning capacity, she should take the living. Isaac agreed to stay at home and do the cooking, dishwashing, mending and care for the baby.

Danielson, standing six feet in his stockings and tipping the scales at 197 pounds, donned an apron and for several months has performed the household duties. He was at the tub today doing the family washing, and he offered to wager that not one man in a thousand realized how difficult is housework.

"I cook three meals each day, care for our little boy, Clifford, who is 3 years old, and keep the place tidy. I wash on Thursday. Then I scrub, wash windows and give the house a good general cleaning each Saturday. I find time in the afternoons to do most of my wife's shopping and help with odd jobs around the house in the evenings, and then it's nothing to do till tomorrow."

HE WANTS $500 FOR THIS 10-CENT PIECE

J. G. Quigley of 2022 Carolyn avenue, Muskogee, Ok., has an odd sort of ten-cent piece, and he wants to find the man who, 13 years ago advertised in the Post-Dispatch that he would pay $55 for such a dime.

The coin is dated 1827 and has on the reverse side the initials "M. L. S.," with the number "345" underneath and three stars above.

Quigley is very proud of his unusual dime, but intimated that he would consent to part with it for $500.

THE HUMOROUS SIDE OF PUPPY DOGS.

By W. J. STEINIGANS

The Greedy One—I must be losing my memory as well as my appetite. I forgot to eat a thing all day.

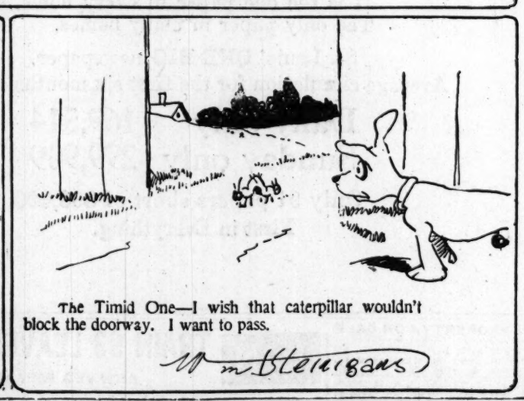

The Black One—That's what you get, smarty, for running faster than the ball.

The Long One—Aw-o-o-o. I can't go swimming with you fellows. My bathing suit doesn't fit.

The Tramp—Well, why don't you say something?

The Timid One—I wish that caterpillar wouldn't block the doorway. I want to pass.

Wm. M. Steinigans

"HONK-HONK."

He: What's the matter with poor young Thomson?

She: The doctor says it's locomotor ataxy.

He: Ah! I'd 'ave the beastly things taken of the road if I 'ad my way!

A SHOCKER.

A PARTY of four at a fashionable restaurant. The prim old maid who was the guest of the evening was charmed with everything, especially the music. She asked the waiter to find out the title of the piece the orchestra was playing. And the willing waiter promised. When he returned the lady had completely forgotten her request. When he bent towards her and softly whispered something in her ear, she recoiled in horror.

"How dare you!" she cried. "How dare you!"

And it took the terrified waiter quite a time to explain why he had merely breathed the title of the piece so softly: "What Can I Do to Make You Love Me?"

PASTURES NEW.

"I told him there were dozens of people here in town who had never heard of him."

"I guess that took him down a peg or two."

"I'm sure it didn't. He started right out to find them and borrow money."

DIFFERENCE.

"HOW old would you say she is?"

"To her face or behind her back?"

THRILLS FROM THE LATEST SUMMER NOVELS.

ILLUSTRATED LITERALLY

WHISPERS ABOUT WOMEN.

Convinced.

"IF you will be mine," he said, "you shall be surrounded with luxuries. My family is very rich."

"I am from Missouri," she replied.

Then he pulled from his pocket a newspaper in which there was an article about the arrest of his father for burning his books so that the Government might not find out about his profits.

Having read the story, she nestled in his arms and was satisfied.

An Awful Strain.

BINKS: I hear your wife is very ill. What is wrong with her?

Jinks: Nervous prostration. She knows five languages and I would only let her talk in one of them at a time.

Diplomacy.

"DID you notice how very sweetly little Mrs. Dollie spoke of her husband?"

"Yes. Everybody heard her. Funny thing to do, wasn't it?"

"Oh, no. Didn't you notice that his sister had just come into the room?"

His Mistake.

HE: My dear, you talked in your sleep a long time last night.

She: What did I talk about?

He: Why, it seemed to be mainly about me.

She: I wasn't asleep.

Generous.

"YOU wish to marry my only daughter," murmured the magnate. "Would you take from me all that I have to solace me in my old age?"

"By no means," declared the Duke warmly. "We want you to keep at least $50,000."—Sacred Heart Review.

Past the Romantic Stage.

"I'm afraid my wife doesn't love me as she did."

"Why so?"

"Now she throws my cigar butts out. She used to treasure 'em when the honeymoon was young."

Love's Measures.

"MY husband gives me a bushel of kisses every morning."

"My husband gives me a peck."

No News to Him.

"WHY don't you say something?" she finally asked. "Here we've been together for nearly three hours, and I've done all the talking."

"Lord!" he replied, "you needn't tell me that. I've been noticing it right along."

She Never Was a Widow.

OLD Adam's luck was not so bad,
As you'll agree, without a doubt;
He never heard Eve boast about
The virtues her first husband had.

Second Nature.

MANY things in this world seem very strange to us until we know why they are done.

"Why do you look under the bed at night?" asked a woman who was visiting a friend.

"You'd never guess," was the reply; "but, since my husband has taken to motoring, I often find that he has crawled underneath."—Judge.

CAMPAIGN LIMERICKS

Presidential Nominee Wilson is fond of limericks.—Daily paper.

A STATESMAN and scholar named Woodrow
To the White House decided he would go;
He will do it this fall,
For progressive men all
Have made up their minds that he should go.

To a sound stalwart Hoosier named Marshall
Old Destiny says that his star shall Continue to rise
In political skies,
For the people to Marshall are partial.

A battle-scarred leader named Bryan
Let out a loud roar like a lion,
And when he was through
There was nothing to do
But to carry out Belmont and Ryan.

There was a rambunctious Bull Moose
Who got his head into a noose;
When he said, "Let me run
If you want to see fun,"
All the people replied, "What's the use?"

There was a big fellow named Taft
Who was running a Salt River craft;
With political junk
It was loaded and sunk,
Whereat everybody just laft.

—RICHARD LINTHICUM.

Crime's Penalty.

THE thief always suffers in the end. Many a fellow who steals a kiss is obliged to marry the girl.—Philadelphia Record.

A Problem.

MRS. G. RAFTER: Here's a poser for you. If you had $50 in your pocket and I needed a new hat—

Mr. G. Rafter: I give it up.

The Proud Duke.

AN English importer told a story illustrative of the pride of the late Duke of Fife.

"A very rich woman in Grosvenor Square," he said, "once asked the Duke to dinner in terms like these:

"'Mrs. Parvenu's social secretary is desired to invite the Duke of Fife to dinner on the seventh instant at 8 o'clock.'

"To this invitation came back the answer:

"'The Duke of Fife's piper is desired to inform Mrs. Parvenu's social secretary that the Duke of Fife declines her invitation.'"—Washington Star.

Inadequate.

UNCLE HARRIS, the old negro servant of Col. Slemmens of Monticello, Ark., approached the Colonel one morning and said:

"Could you lemme look into yo' dictionary a minute, Kuhnel?"

"Dictionary?" replied the Colonel. "What do you want with the dictionary?"

"Well," replied the old darky, "I jest want to find a couple of words to add to my lodge-office title. Dey done chose me last night to be gran' high most worthy exalted imperial plenipotentiary, but it strikes me dat sounds jes a little bit cheap."—Kansas City Star.

HOW TO PRESERVE YOUTH AND BEAUTY.

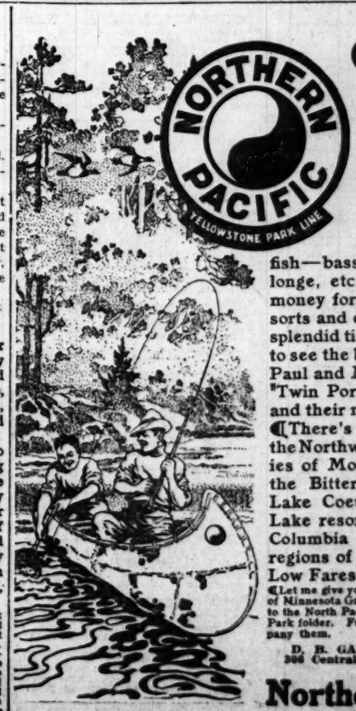

One great secret of youth and beauty for the young woman or the mother is the proper understanding of her womanly system and well-being. Every woman, young or old, should know herself and her physical make up. A good way to arrive at this knowledge is to get a good doctor book, such for instance, as "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., which can readily be procured by sending thirty-one cents for cloth-bound copy, addressing Dr. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y.

The womanly system is a delicate machine which can only be compared to the intricate mechanism of a beautiful watch which will keep in good running order only with good care and the proper oiling at the right time, so that the delicate mechanism may not be worn out. Very many times young women get old or run down before their time through ignorance and the improper handling of this human mechanism. Mental depression, a confused head, backache, headache, or hot flashes and many symptoms of derangement of the womanly system can be avoided by a proper understanding of what to do, in those trying times that come to all women.

MRS. WILLIAMS.

Mrs. G. H. Williams of Lynnhaven, Va., wrote: "It is six years since my health gave way, I had female trouble and all the doctors (I employed three) said I would die. I was not able to do my work, had to hire someone all the time. Finally, I read in the papers about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and decided to try it. I had not taken but one bottle until I found it had done me good. I took, in all, five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and now I am able to do all my housework, and have gained 14 pounds. I advise all women who suffer from female trouble to try your 'Favorite Prescription.' It's the only medicine on earth."
